

School boards lose some power

First in a two-part series

By Lisa Boudreau

The recently enacted Education Reform legislation means changes statewide for the ways in which communities operate and fund public schools. But many Andover educators believe that the impact on schools here will be minimal, because school officials already have implemented many of the mandated changes.

Andover has established an aggressive curriculum to meet new state standards, given more decision-making power to principals, formed advisory councils for each school and funded professional development programs for teachers, according to school officials.

Hearing set for Wednesday on noisy train whistles

By Don Staruk

The state Department of Public Utilities will hold a public hearing at Memorial Hall Library Wednesday night, July 21, to hear residents' complaints and concerns about noisy train whistles.

Town officials have been getting noise complaints since last fall when approximately 200 residents signed a petition in support of quieting the train whistles. The complaints are that the whistles are being blown louder and more frequently than was past practice.

Selectmen in May granted the request of Leo Doherty, of 11 Buxton Court, and asked the DPU for the public hearing to request having at least some of the trains stop blowing their whistles as often and as loudly as they do now.

Buzz Stapeczynski, town manager, has talked with Mary Webster, of 9 Punchard Ave., a commissioner for the DPU, and been told that in similar cases in other towns the DPU has sided with public safety and upheld the whistleblowing. Ms. Webster did not give any reason to believe the department's decision would be any different in Andover.

Selectmen expect to petition for either a waiver for the whistle blowing or a ban on the whistles during late night and early morning hours.

The Trombly family, of 12 Brady Loop, answered the Townsmen's request for volunteers to give up television for a week to 10 days. They found time to work on an outdoor project - making a tree house. Pictured clockwise from left are Diane, Eric, Max and John Trombly.

Living without TV

Two Andover families find out what it's like to give up TV for a week

By Lisa Boudreau

Breakfast time at the Trombly household is more relaxed now. Max, 11, and Eric, 6, no longer rush through their cereal so they can watch television.

And the Timkos' family room is now quiet enough for Judy Timko to sit down and read a book in the evenings. Her family shut off their TV for a week. They joined the Tromblys and a few other Andover families two weeks ago in the Townsmen's challenge to spend a week or more without watching TV.

So what did they do?

"The biggest change I've seen is that the kids are reading more," said John Trombly, of 12 Brady Loop.

Mr. Trombly said he and his wife, Diane, are now considering turning their TV off for the remainder of the summer. Their family stopped watching TV Friday, July 2, and went

Planners talk about expanding downtown area

By Don Staruk

Town planners Tuesday night discussed the possibility of expanding the downtown commercial zone to include the property down off Essex Street that is zoned Industrial G-zoned and which includes Dundee Park office complex.

The proposal to rezone that IG property for commercial use is only at the discussion phase right now, according to Hooks Johnston, chairman of the Planning Board, but planners would like input and feedback on the proposal from citizens, officials and especially the property owners in the area.

The reasons for expanding the commer-

Traffic supervisor offers solutions to downtown congestion

By Jennifer Lewis

Every morning and evening in downtown Andover, Main Street is bumper-to-bumper with cars, a few taxis and buses. According to Traffic Supervisor David Cantone, town planning (or lack of it), lack of main streets, the widespread use of Route 28, Andover's popularity, and the inconvenience of stoplights are all factors that contribute to the increasing congestion in the downtown area.

Mr. Cantone has worked with the Andover Police Department for six years. Residents often see him walking around the downtown area monitoring parking lots and looking for meter and safety violations.

Mr. Cantone believes that the layout of the downtown area contributes to some of the parking inconvenience.

"Andover could have been laid out better," he said. "The city wasn't developed; parking came as it came."

He compared Andover to the planned city of Los Angeles and commented on their dif-

Photographer charged with making obscene telephone calls

By Don Staruk

Matthew V. Sapienza, former Townsmen photographer, was arraigned in Lawrence District Court yesterday morning, Wednesday, on charges of making obscene telephone calls to several young girls.

Mr. Sapienza, 30, of 654 Salem St., North Andover, pleaded innocent to 11 counts of making obscene phone calls, using indecent and obscene language, to girls, ages 5 to 15, in Lawrence, North Andover, Methuen, Haverhill, Windham, N.H. and Salem, N.H., between January and July of this year. He was released on his own personal recognizance and his case was continued for a pre-trial conference on Monday, Aug. 16.

All charges were brought by North Andover police because that is the town from which the calls originated, according to police. Police said a telephone trap was used to trace the calls to Mr. Sapienza.

Police allege Mr. Sapienza called the girls after they appeared in local newspapers. North Andover police are continuing the investigation, according to Lt. Paul Gallagher.

The charges are all misdemeanors and are punishable by up to three months in jail and a $500 fine for each infraction.

"Mr. Sapienza's guilt or innocence will be determined by the court system," said Irving E. Rogers Jr., Townsmen publisher. "But, there obviously are people out there who were victimized by harassing telephone calls and I am concerned about them, as I am concerned about Mr. Sapienza's family. It is a tragic series of events. The Townsmen will cooperate fully in the police investigation."

Working for defense-related industry

In budget deliberations last week, the Massachusetts Senate made a major move to help the Bay State's defense-related industries gear up for the post-Cold War era, announced Sen. John D. O'Brien, D-Andover.

The Senate voted to appropriate $2 million as the state's required share for the creation of the regional technology extension centers with the federal government. Through the center, private/public partnerships will assist defense-dependent firms in converting and commercializing their technologies for civilian markets. Massachusetts has the most defense-dependent economy in the United States in terms of per capita spending. "The passage of this amendment represents a positive event for Massachusetts," Sen. O'Brien said. "The amendment is an important first step in forming a collaborative effort between state government and the defense industries in the commonwealth as they work together to determine the changing role of defense contractors. This effort is significant because it may not only save jobs, it may also be helpful in creating new employment opportunities."

NEWS IN BRIEF

With apologies to the Lindsay and Johnson families, the Townsmen runs again the photo of the family of the veterinarians who own and run the Andover Animal Hospital. A photo of the same group ran on page 1 last week with incorrect and missing information. Sitting, from left, are Diane Lindsay Johnson with cats Toto and Arnold in her lap, Betty Lindsay, Dr. Richard Lindsay, Dr. David Lindsay with Chumley at his feet, Dr. Martha Lindsay holding Carmel, young Doug Johnson with Dodger, and Dr. Mike Johnson holding Sweetie Pie. On the floor, from left, are Sarah Lindsay, Carolyn Johnson with Max, and Christine Lindsay with Jacques.

Although the little beagle in this photo has been adopted, the adult male cross-labrador needs a good home. If you are interested, call Andover Animal Hospital at 475-3600.

Two communities get grant money

Sen. John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, announced that Gov. Weld has awarded the city of Lawrence a "1993 Governor's Highway Safety Bureau Child Passenger Safety Overtime Enforcement" grant. Lawrence will receive $10,000 for the enforcement of child safety belt laws.

Andover has also received grant money to assist in enforcing safety laws.

One bridge opens, another closes

The Central Street bridge re-opened Tuesday evening. Now that that bridge is repaired, the bridge near the post office on Stevens Street will close for major repairs as of today, Thursday, say town officials.

The Stevens Street steel-grate bridge that runs over the river will be replaced. The Stevens Street bridge is expected to be closed until November. It has been deemed unsafe due to rusted structural beams, which was the same problem at the Central Street bridge.

Town taxes are due Aug. 2

The town of Andover has mailed tax bills for the first quarter of fiscal year 1994. The bills are due Monday, Aug. 2. Taxes unpaid after that date are subject to interest charges of 14 percent.

The town hall offices at 36 Bartlet St. are open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Residents can leave tax payments in the white mailbox with the blue Town of Andover seal in front of the town office building.

If mailed, town officials ask residents to use the envelope provided and do not fold the bill.

The tax collectors' office will be open Mondays, July 26 and Aug. 2, from 6 to 8 p.m. For more information, call 470-3800.

cial area are that:

- Only 1 percent of the town's land is zoned for commercial use and that is not enough to support the town's population;

- The CBD boundary cannot be expanded at this time;

- Portions of the lower Essex Street Industrial G and Mixed Use-zoned properties are already in commercial use;

The CBD is surrounded by "soft uses" and houses, according to Laura Hill, senior town planner.

"The boundaries can't grow," she said.

So rather than try to expand the CBD, planners want to develop the nearby IG zone for commercial uses, which are currently not allowed in that zone.

A key to developing the IG area, west of Lupine Road and across the railroad tracks down to the Shawsheen River, is the construction of another railroad crossing from Lupine Road into Dundee Park. That would alleviate the bottleneck at the Essex, School, Pearson and Railroad streets crossing.

Such a crossing from Lupine has been considered in the past and would be allowed by the MBTA, but could mean giving up the St. Augustine Cemetery crossing and possibly the Pearson Street crossing, which is considered separate from the Essex Street crossing. It would also cost anywhere from $600,000 to $5 million and the question then becomes who will pay for it.

Another consideration in developing the area is the Shawsheen River.

"Any zoning or development proposals should consider this resource in terms of pedestrian access, river-front protection, and potential vistas of the river from our commercial area," Laura Hill, senior planner, wrote in a memo to the Planning Board.

Planners will contact Rep. Gary Coon and Senator John O'Brien to enlist their help in exploring state and federal funding sources for developing the area. Rep. Coon and Sen. O'Brien may be invited to the board's Aug. 10 meeting to discuss the proposal.

Planners will then invite the owners of property in the Dundee Park area to a board meeting, probably in September, to discuss plans for the area, solicit ideas from property owners and get a feel for the kind of obstacles that need to be overcome to develop the area.

Planners will discuss this proposal at most of their meetings in the next several months and would encourage input from anyone who would like to comment on it.

School Committee reverses and grants William Hart's leave

The School Committee's get-tough policy on teacher leaves that the board adopted last month softened recently. The committee reversed its decision, which now grants William Hart, a social studies teacher at Andover High School, an extended leave of absence to teach in Greece for a second year, even though he applied for the extension more than a month after the deadline.

The reversed policy also allows David Betencourt to return to teaching science at Doherty Middle School in September, even though in April he had requested and was granted an extension.

Superintendent Mark McQuillan returned to the board two weeks ago and asked committee members to reconsider the teachers' requests. The committee voted 2 to 0, with members Susan Jenkins and Mary Lyman abstaining. Bill Huston and Chairwoman Susan Dalton voted in favor of granting the requests. Member Richard Muller was out of town and did not attend the meeting.

Two businesses given reduced parking permits

By Don Staruk

The Planning Board Tuesday night indicated it will grant a special permit for reduced parking that will allow Petro's Seafood & Deli, at 16 Post Office Ave., to continue to operate a full-service restaurant, but delayed a vote until planners' next meeting, on Aug. 10.

Nicholas Valhouli, owner of Petro's, opened the restaurant six years ago as a take-out service with "a few" tables. He has since expanded to a 32-seat, full-service restaurant. The changes constitute a "change of use," according to planners, and as such Mr. Valhouli needs to provide 21 parking spaces for his employees and customers to comply with zoning bylaws. That includes 16 spaces for the 32 seats and three for the maximum of six employees.

No parking spaces are currently available to Petro's, but seven spaces are allowed by the bylaw because of a prior use. That leaves a 14-space deficit.

Board members agreed to the conditions of a proposal that would use shared parking to satisfy the bylaw requirement, and delayed voting only so they could review the conditions in writing.

The crux of the agreement is a lease of parking spaces behind the Settles Glass building on Elm Street. The spaces are to be leased from Shaymar Properties, a sub corporation of Doherty Insurance, which holds a lease on the Elm Street property from Bursaw Oil Corp. of Danvers.

Petro's will lease two spaces during the day, when it has only three employees working and most of its traffic is walk-in, and 10 spaces at night, when more spaces are available in on-street and other remote parking.

Other conditions include encouraging development of a pedestrian access from the Settles Glass parking through the back of the property to Post Office Avenue; putting signs in the restaurant windows and notations on the menus indicating that the remote parking exists; and a review of how the parking is working in one year.

Mr. Valhouli has been negotiating with the town regarding the parking situation at his business for at least two years. He's been in business since 1987.

Bruegger's

Bruegger's Corp. of Beverly was granted a similar special permit for reduced parking by the Planning Board on June 23 for a planned Bruegger's Bagel Bakery at 10 Main St., the site of the former Gentry men's clothing store.

Bruegger's wanted to open a 72-seat restaurant in the 3,000-square-foot space, but could not comply with parking requirements. Instead, it was granted a special permit for a 32-seat restaurant.

The restaurant will provide the sale of bagels, takeout of bagel sandwiches and a self-serve restaurant for breakfast, lunch and dinner between the hours of 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily.

Bruegger's original proposal would have required 40 parking spaces to comply with the zoning bylaw, and it did not have any parking committed to the restaurant. The bylaw states that no permit shall be issued for "the change of one type of use to another unless off-street parking is provided....," the change is three spaces or less, or the total spaces required is less than six.

The requirement for the previous retail use was 12 spaces, so no permit would be required if the number of spaces required was 15 spaces or less (the previous 12 plus three). That would have limited the restaurant to 24 seats, with 12 spaces for seating and three for employees. The 32-seat proposal required 19 spaces, 16 for the seating and three for employees.

But Bruegger's argued that most of its customers would be passers-by, and would not be making a special trip downtown to go to the store, and would therefore not have a big impact on parking.

Planners took into consideration the proximity of the rear entrance of the store to municipal lots and the expected peak hours of operation in granting the special permit despite a four-space parking deficit.

Kiu restaurant

Peking Garden of Andover, a primarily take-out Chinese-food restaurant at 36-42 Park St., was granted a special permit for reduced parking by the Planning Board on June 9.

David Kiu, of Somerville, new owner of the former Lane's End property, petitioned for a reduction in the parking requirements so he could have 20 seats in the restaurant. Mr. Kiu was required to have 15 parking spaces for his employees and customers

THE FINANCING CONTINGENCY

Residential sales agreements usually have clauses called financing contingencies. These allow the buyers to declare the contract null and void if they are unable to obtain financing. If you are buying a home, this may be the most important condition in your contract, and it is wise to read it carefully before signing on the dotted line.

Most financing clauses state that you have a set period, usually 30 to 45 days, to obtain a firm commitment from a lender. They may also set deadlines for applying for a loan and require that you cooperate fully with the lender to provide information needed to complete your loan processing. If you don't get your loan approved on time, you may have to request an extension from the sellers or take very specific steps to void the contract and get your deposit money back. When you and your Realtor or lawyer are drawing up the paperwork for the purchase of your home, be sure that you note all financing deadlines. Apply for your loan as soon as possible, and be diligent in providing any documents the lender requests.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate specialists at Century 21 Minuteman Realty are ready to serve you. Feel free to visit our office at 2 Elm Square, or phone us at 475-1243.

Faith DiBona tries out a new Jafra blush color on Elaine Pescatore, Jafra regional manager. Both women are from Andover.

Faith DiBona brings Jafra skin-care products to the house

By Lisa Boudreau

Faith DiBona, of Carmel Road, wasn't looking for a job last year when she attended a friend's cosmetic party to have her skin, hair and makeup colors analyzed. But by the end of the evening she was so impressed with the cosmetics made by Jafra, a subsidiary of Gillette Co., and by the expertise of the Jafra representative, she looked into becoming a consultant herself.

For the past 10 months Ms. DiBona has represented the California-based company as a cosmetic consultant. She meets with both men and women to teach them about skincare techniques and the company's makeup and hair-care products. She also conducts classes similar to the ones she attended a year ago.

"This is something I can do just for me. This is the type of job that can fit into anyone's schedule," said the mother of two preschool-aged children. "I can set my own hours and I can work out of my house as easily as I go to other people's houses."

Another plus, she said, is that the company does not place any selling quotas on its cosmetic consultants.

"There is no pressure on us to make a certain amount of sales," she said.

The only mandatory purchase is a $95 complete skin-care regimen that consultants use to demonstrate the products to potential customers, said Elaine Pescatore, of Belknap Drive, Ms. DiBona's regional manager. When people decide to buy Jafra products, consultants order the items from the California plant that makes them.

The cosmetic prices start at less than $8 for lipsticks and include skin-care products ranging from about $15 to $50. One of these is Royal Jelly face cream, made from the royal jelly extract produced by

Jafra cosmetics come to the house

"I think that it's important (that each item is ordered from the factory where it is made), because customers know that they are not buying cosmetics that have been sitting around in a consultant's basement for months getting damp," she said.

Ms. Pescatore began her association with the company 14 years ago when she was a biochemist for Gillette. During that time she was introduced to Jafra cosmetics and began as a part-time consultant. As her family grew she decided she wanted a job with more flexible hours. She left her biochemistry job to consult for Jafra on her own.

She is now a regional manager and meets with consultants, such as Ms. DiBona, in this area. She also attends Jafra manager conferences several times each year to learn about new products, new seasonal cosmetic colors and other marketing techniques.

"I still like to test new products (from other companies) that come onto the market," Ms. Pescatore said.

She occasionally goes to department store cosmetic counters to test the competition's products, such as Clinique, Lancome and Estee Lauder. Jafra products are better, less expensive, she said, and are not tested on animals, which she has discovered is very important to a great number of her customers.

Here's a list of how extra school money will be spent

By Lisa Boudreau

More than $100,000 of the $274,000 additional state aid payment that is promised to Andover schools will be spent to rehire several teachers and support staff members who were laid off in recent budget cuts.

In addition to rehiring teachers, the School Committee last week approved earmarking $60,000 of the payment to fund increases in special-education transportation and out-of-district placements costs and $20,000 for staff development.

The following is a breakdown of how the money will be spent:

- $30,000 to hire one science teacher at Andover High School.
- $16,000 to hire a half-time guidance counselor at the High School.
- $30,000 to hire one elementary school librarian.
- $6,000 to add eight hours of physical education time at the elementary level.

- $15,000 to hire a half-time teacher at the elementary level.

- $8,000 to add 16 hours of assistant time at Shawsheen School.
- $20,000 to fund additional special education transportation.

- $40,000 to fund additional special education out-of-district placements.
- $23,000 to purchase additional textbooks.

- $25,000 for cover additional legal costs associated with negotiating contracts next school year.
- $15,000 to purchase more furniture, desks and chairs.

- $25,000 to purchase more computer equipment.

- $3,000 to purchase more athletic equipment.
- $20,000 to fund professional development for teachers.

according to the bylaw. Only eight were available for the two businesses the restaurant would replace, the former Calcina's paint store and Lane's End candy shop, so he was looking at a deficit of seven spaces.

The permit was granted after a calculation of all the uses in the building with allowances under the old bylaw, and of all the uses in the building right now under the mixed-use section of the bylaw, brought the number of additional spaces required within the three allowed by the bylaw.

'World in Motion' keeps math and science interesting

By Christine McCarthy
South School PTO

You were likely to feel a bit out of place when you entered Frank Rapisardi's fifth-grade science period at South School. Students in white lab coats called out, "Ask my facilities engineer." "The gravity force was stronger at 2." "Centimeters are the little ones." "Can I see the program engineer, please?"

These students were engaged in an international educational program designed by the SAE Foundation of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The program, called A World In Motion, uses a real-world, design-team approach and a single, extended project to make learning physics easier and more fun than traditional teaching methods.

Students form design teams consisting of a development engineer, test engineer, facilities engineer and a program engineer. Each position has a clearly articulated job description and specific assignments. For example, the facilities engineer "obtains, stores, maintains and dispenses all materials and equipment, moves around the classroom during the activity, assigns all the cleanup, assigns the maintenance tasks." Working in these teams, the students explore a scientific concept by conducting simple experiments. Then, they apply their results to their year-long application, recording all the data in their design team log.

Students studied friction by testing the effects of a rubber band and a pipe cleaner on the movement of two playing cards leaning against one another. The next session, they tested the effects of materials such as rubber bands, sandpaper, oil and talcum powder on the performance of their application, a race car.

After the experiments project engineers meet in a think tank session to discuss the data and present the team's observations. The classroom teacher guides their thoughts by asking questions, such as "What are the properties of oil that help it decrease the racer's friction point?" Thus, the children learn what kind of questions to ask as they experiment.

According to the program literature, A World In Motion "is designed to fight the statistically proven decrease in student interest in science and math that occurs between grades three and seven." A primary focus of the program is the quality of the experience: "The feelings these young students gain toward science are more important than mastering the concepts."

According to Mr. Rapisardi, "The kids really like it. They like the responsibility and the clear-cut goal - to develop a race car to the point that it will be competitive. They are doing projects they can relate to."

The program reduces the concepts to a very simple level and uses simple materials, most of which can come from home. So the students aren't afraid of the materials and have no anxiety over the process, it's too much fun.

The students also like the real-life circumstances. "They enjoy acting like an adult," says Mr. Rapisardi. "They can see down the road what might be expected of them in work. And they learn about relying on others and being responsible. Since each engineer is the only one who can perform his tasks, students experience the importance of each member's contribution to the success of the team. "If the facilities engineer doesn't get the materials, the whole thing falls apart."

Ultimately, all of this leads to empowerment of the students. "They develop a lot of independence, more than in other cooperative learning situations," according to Mr. Rapisardi. "The teacher has to do less coordination than usual." And all this translates into excitement - students excited about the results of their experiment and spontaneously figuring out why it worked as it did, demonstrating those elusive problem-solving and critical-thinking skills.

A World In Motion came to South School through the efforts of Jitendra Goela, a parent and an engineer at Morton International's Advance Materials division. He became aware of the program through the American Society of Mechanical Engineers newsletter, attended a meeting describing the program and contacted Mr. Rapisardi. A World In Motion requires a professional engineer to act as a volunteer who initiates the program and serves as a reference and liaison for the teacher. Mr. Goela took on that role for South, as well as getting the program going in a school in Lawrence and, through a friend, at the Indian Institute of Technology in India. He also got a $100 grant from Morton International to purchase South's lab coats.

According to Mr. Goela, A World In Motion has several goals. "To increase the interest in engineering. That was the theme of the first meeting. I described for the students by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

A PENETRATING LOOK

Even the most careful examination by the dentist may not uncover early evidence of decay between teeth. Such problems as bone destruction due to periodontal (gum) disease is certainly beyond the scope of a visual examination without supplementary views by virtue of x-rays. A complete set of X-rays includes periapical views, which show the roots and crowns of teeth, as well as bitewings, which show the molars and premolars. Patients with good oral health histories need only undergo complete sets of x-rays every five to ten years, with bitewings every two to four years. Those who experience periodontal disease or who have undergone root-canal treatment may need more frequent periapical films of specific teeth, while cavity-prone patients may need more frequent bitewings.

Your total health is always our concern. That's why all new patient exams are so thorough - so we can establish a baseline against which we can measure your future dental profile and progress. And since x-rays can play such an important part in preventive dental care, their conservative use can effectively and efficiently pinpoint problem areas that need careful watching and extra attention. We're your teeth's best friend here at 296 Lowell Street, Rt 133 (with easy access off Rt 93), where hours are Mon and Thur 10-8, Tues and Fri 8-6, and by appointment. Phone: 475-2431.

PS: Panoramic x-rays can provide invaluable information in cases where an unerupted tooth or a temporomandibular joint must be seen vey, Suzanne J. Knight, Patricia A. Landgraf, Timothy G. Sirois, Kelly A. Wheeler and Christine M. Winning.

Three Andover students have been named to dean's honor or dean's high honors for the 1993 spring semester at Connecticut College.

They are: Noel J. Sloboda, dean's honors, and David E. Leno and Matthew A. Tanner, dean's high honors.

Diane Hevehan of Andover, a 1993 graduate of Tufts University's College of Engineering, received the Alex Elias Memorial Prize Scholarship during academic awards ceremonies held recently on the university's Medford/Somerville campus.

The scholarship is presented to a junior or senior who best displays those high standards in community activities and in athletic and scholarly pursuits for which Alex Elias, a 1967 Tufts graduate, was well known. The memorial was established in 1966 by the brotherhood of Alpha Epsilon Pi and other friends of Alex Elias.

The Andover Democratic Town Committee awarded its 1993 Ann Guzowski Memorial Scholarship on June 11 to Ryan Hansen, son of Andover town clerk Randy Hansen.

Mr. Hansen graduated this year from Central Catholic High School and plans to attend Holy Cross College in Worcester in the fall.

The scholarship is awarded each year in memory of Ann Guzowski, an active member of the town committee, to a high school senior who shows an interest in pursuing a career in public service. In addition to awarding $5,000 in scholarships in the past five years, the committee has also provided more than $1,000 of financial support to the Junior State program at Andover High School. This assistance has enabled students to attend seminars and workshops sponsored by the National Junior State Organization.

Beth Snyder, daughter of Robert and Joanne Snyder of 7 Crestwood Drive, was named to the University of Vermont's dean's list. She graduated from Andover High School in 1992.

Ardith Larochelle and Diane Pash have been named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Bunker Hill Community College in Boston.

Shannon Elizabeth Canavin of Andover, a junior at the University of Rochester's Eastman School of Music, has been named to the director's list for academic achievement.

She is a graduate of Phillips Academy.

Edward A. Chaisson, son of Ed and Maureen Chaisson of Andover, has completed a team project for Babson College's Management Consulting Field Experience.

The selective program enables students to consult to businesses, non-profit organizations and government agencies. Student teams receive hands-on experience and the opportunity to apply techniques learned in the classroom to solve real business problems and make detailed recommendations to the sponsoring company.

Mr. Chaisson and his team worked on a project for the Human Resources Department at Babson College in Wellesly.

He is studying entrepreneurship and marketing. He is a 1990 graduate of Saint John's Preparatory School.

Janaan Crispo of 8 Tilton Lane was named to the dean's list at Bridgewater State College with a grade point average of 3.85. Ms. Crispo is majoring in early elementary education.

Rebecca Crispo of 8 Tilton Lane was awarded an academic scholarship to Bridgewater State College, where she will be a first-year student in September. This scholarship was awarded to Ms. Crispo from the Boston Teacher's Union.

Melissa Dennis is on the dean's list at Bryant College in Smithfield, R.I. She has a 3.7 GPA. Ms. Dennis graduated last June from Andover High School and lives at 6 Seminole Circle with her parents, Tom and Barbara, and her brother, Jeff.

Julie DiLiegro, daughter of Nick and Susan DiLiegro of 8 Tiffany Lane, made the dean's list at Bentley College. The freshman is a 1992 graduate of Andover High School.

Antje Ellermann, a 1989 Andover High School graduate, was awarded a full-tuition dean's scholarship for the senior year at Boston University's Theatre School. The scholarship recognizes "the most outstanding talent in the School for the Arts."

Ms. Ellermann has been accepted for internship with the Peterborough Summer Stock Theatre in New Hampshire. She is the scenic artist and design assistant for their five summer productions.

Jeremy Kahan of Andover was honored at the Fairleigh Dickinson University campus awards program April 25 for his contributions to the work of the campus standards commit-

The fair is free and open to the public.

'World in Motion' encourages learning

◀ Leah Pellerin's team performs in the semi-finals.

The program also "gets them on a natural level, keeps the students' learning in mind." A World In Motion provides students with hands-on experiments to keep them learning new concepts through doing.

The program's ultimate goal is to get more kids into engineering through implementing its three action goals:

- Get them thinking.
- Get them doing.
- Get them talking.

Phillips Academy features Irish fiddler Séamus A. Connolly

The Phillips Academy Summer Session will present Séamus A. Connolly, traditional Irish fiddler, in recital on Tuesday, July 20, at 6:45 p.m. This recital will take place in Kemper Auditorium on the Phillips Academy campus.

Mr. Connolly, a member of the Phillips Academy and Boston College music faculties, is a 10-time Irish National Fiddle Champion and the youngest competitor ever to win the senior championship. His other awards include winner of the internationally acclaimed "Fiddler of Dooney" competition; the 1990 Massachusetts Cultural Council Fellowship Award; winner of the Radio Telefís Éireann National Music Competition for best musician on any instrument; a 1990, 1991 and 1992 Boston Music Awards nominee; and his solo recording of "Here and There" was chosen one of the top five Celtic records for 1990 by the National Association of Independent Record Distributors.

Profiled by Boston's WCVB-TV 5 Chronicle program, Mr. Connolly has represented Irish-style fiddling on three national tours of "Masters of Folk Violin" sponsored by the National Council for the Traditional Arts; represented music of Massachusetts at the 1988 Smithsonian Festival of American Folklife in Washington, D.C.; represented Ireland at the International Folk Festival in Nice, France; appeared in three National Folk Festivals sponsored by the National Council for the Traditional Arts; appeared on the Today Show; was the featured subject of a documentary film and video made in America and Ireland on traditional Irish music; and is a former member of the Kilenora and Leitrim Ceili bands.

Mr. Connolly initiated, produced and co-hosted Comhaltas Ceoltóirí Éireann's weekly radio program of traditional Irish music on WNTN 1550 AM Boston; co-hosted Irish segments of WGBH (National Public Radio) series titled "Ethnicity"; arranged, directed and produced Comhaltas Ceoltóirí Éireann's recording "We're Irish Still"; and arranged, produced, directed and performed on the solo album "Notes from My Mind" (Green Linnet Records). Mr. Connolly can also be heard on Sounding Board, Ceoltas, Oenoke, Arhoolie, and Nimbus records.

This concert is free and open to the public.

Historical Society plans walking tour tonight, slide show July 21

By Barbara Thibault
Andover Historical Society

The Andover Historical Society plans a walking tour of West Parish this evening, Thursday, July 15, at 6:30 and a slide show, "Ancestral Images," on Wednesday, July 21, at noon.

Tonight's tour begins by observing the elegant Federal style of West Parish Church (1826), the oldest house of worship standing in Andover.

The original architectural style, which features a symmetrical stone mass, pedimented pitched roof and square bell tower, retains its integrity even with the later changes to the spire, front windows and roof material.

West Andover families, including the Holts, Chandlers, Abbots, Phelps, Shattucks, Faulkners, Fries and Baileys, petitioned to separate legally from South Parish and helped to finance the building of the church.

A mason and shareholder, Reuben

Frye, was involved with the stonework as indicated by his initials carved above the front doors.

This tour is led by Barbara Thibault and is co-sponsored with the Department of Community Services.

The meeting place is West Parish Church, the walk will be 90 minutes and there is a small admission charge.

"Ancestral Images" illustrates slides of the historical society's portrait collection. Biographies and the painting restoration processes are discussed in the 40-minute program. The narrator, Geneva Killorin, says, "The portrait archive at the society is an impressive one. We acknowledge here the many generous gifts from townspeople. Not only do the images record and preserve Andover history, the collection reflects and exemplifies the regional art history of the late 18th and 19th centuries."

"Ancestral Images" is part of the society's noontime programs, so bring lunch; cookies and lemonade are provided.

See Herbie Rides Again in The Park Monday night

The Department of Community Services continues its Monday night family movie program.

Herbie Rides Again Monday, July 19, at dusk in The Park. Admission is free.

Herbie Rides Again, a Walt Disney film featuring Helen Hayes and Ken Berry, runs 1 hour and 40 minutes.

Everyone's favorite "Bug" returns in this sequel to the smash hit, The Love Bug. This time the free-wheeling Volkswagen rides in defense of a little old lady to prevent her home from being destroyed.

If it rains Monday, movies will be shown on Tuesday.

Next week's film is Beethoven.

Children's Corner is every Thursday in Lowell

The Boarding House Park Performance Series will present Children's Corner events at 11 a.m. every Thursday through Aug. 26. These free events offer theater, music, dance and puppetry for preschool to early elementary school children. Boarding House Park performances are presented by the UMass Lowell Center for the Arts through a cooperative agreement with the Lowell Historic Preservation Commission.

Boarding House Park kicked off its Children's Corner Series with "Master Dancers of Cambodia." A display of Cambodian music and dance prepared especially for children. The event was sponsored by Family Bank.

On July 15, "Krinsky" will present his fast-paced act. Gary Krinsky combines circus skills, mime, original music, adventures and audience involvement into one complete show. This event is sponsored by O'Connor School Portraits and Associates.

On July 22, "Donna Marie and her Friends" will entertain with classic ventriloquism, comedy, singing and yodeling. Donna Marie's show takes the audience to a magical world where all sorts of wonderful creatures live and outrageously funny things happen. This event is sponsored by Landmark Video World Inc.

The last program of the month will be "Bamidele Dance and Drum Troupe" on July 29. This colorfully-costumed company will present a program of African music, dances and folktales geared to a young audience. This event is sponsored by Subway.

Events scheduled for August are "Gary the Silent Clown," Aug. 5; "Come On & Sing Along" with Ann Shapiro, Aug. 12; "Peter and the Wolf" with the Granite State Ballet Company, Aug. 19; and "Carnival of the Animals" with Puppets Project, Aug. 26.

In case of rain, events will be moved to the Smith Baker Center, 400 Merrimack St., downtown Lowell. For schedule or rain location information, call 459-1000.

Artists Guild awards several scholarships to local graduates

Under the direction of Sandy Koulichkov, the Andovers Artists Guild awarded several scholarships during the month of June to local graduates planning to further their art education.

Recipients from Andover High School are Christine Dehne, to attend the Museum School-Tufts University; Ellen Mitchell, to attend Pomona College in California; and Eblin Rebollo, to attend the Fashion Institute of Design Marketing in Los Angeles.

Guild members Diane Maroun, Karen Fitzgerald and Jim Cassidy participated in the evaluation of artwork and the selection of award-winners.

The guild was incorporated in 1970 as a non-profit organization and membership is open to everyone who wishes to support the visual arts.

Chabad play group begins in September

Gan-Yeladim play group for children ages 2 to 4 will open at Chabad of the Merrimack Valley for September of the 1993-'94 year.

The play group gives parents the option of whether to stay with their child.

The program is designed to develop children to their fullest potential physically, socially, emotionally and intellectually in a nurturing play group environment.

For more information, call Feigie Bronstein at 475-1853.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

MATTERS OF NUTRITION

A recent survey by the Nutrition Information Center in New York sheds some light on the nutrition practices of medical physicians. It found that the majority of the more than 3,400 respondents nationwide agreed with such statements as "diet has an important role in disease prevention," "in many cases, medication could be reduced or eliminated if patients followed a recommended diet," and "doctors should spend more time exploring dietary habits during patient evaluation." Only 34 percent of the physicians surveyed, however, claimed to use nutrition-related research results to improve patient care. Only 20 percent recommended dietary counseling to patients. By comparison, chiropractic sees nutrition as a cornerstone of human health.

Your chiropractor is dedicated to your entire health and uses only natural and safe methods for helping to restore and maintain the health of every member of your family. Please call us at DELORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, 475-5042, for an appointment. We accept only those patients we sincerely feel we can help. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Chiropractic has always eschewed the use of medication to battle disease in favor of more natural health-restorative measures.

Arrangements were by Burke Funeral Home in Andover.

Memorial contributions may be made to American Lung Association, 239 Newburyport Turnpike, Topsfield, Mass. 01983.

Bernard P. McParland

Was Iwo Jima war hero, and financial consultant

Bernard P. McParland, 68, of Wolfeboro, N.H., formerly of Andover, died of cancer Friday, July 9, at his home.

Mr. McParland was born in Lawrence. He graduated from Lawrence High School in 1942, Harvard University in 1950 and American College of Bryn Mawr.

He was a chartered financial consultant and a chartered life underwriter.

Mr. McParland served in the Marine Corps during World War II and fought with the Fifth Marine Division on Iwo Jima. He was one of the few survivors of that battle and received the Purple Heart.

He was a former president of the Harvard Club of Boston and a former secretary of the Harvard Club of Andover. He was a member of Bald Peak Country Club in Melvin Village, N.H.

His family said he was well known for his creative writing ability and wit and was a popular public speaker at political and professional events. He enjoyed recalling tales of the days when his dad, the late Pete McParland, played semi-pro baseball with the old South Lawrence League and pitched against Babe Ruth three times in Fenway Park.

Members of his family include his wife, Claire "Larkie" (Palmer) McParland of Wolfeboro, N.H.; son, Barry McParland of North Hampton, N.H.; daughter, Leighton Ziskin of Lindenhurst, N.Y.; aunt, Margaret (McParland) Fingleton of Methuen; and several cousins.

Burial was private at the cemetery of Trinity Anglican Church in Rochester, N.H.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Trinity Anglican Church Building Fund, 19 Charles St., Rochester, N.H. 03867, or the American Cancer Society, HC 69, Box 631, Wolfeboro, N.H. 03894.

Rita C. (Mailloux) Simili, 74, of Methuen died Friday, July 9, at her home.

Mrs. Simili was born in Lowell and had been an area resident for the past 42 years.

She served as a mechanic in the Women's Ordinance Organization during World War II.

Mrs. Simili worked at Microwave Associates in Waltham until her retirement.

She was a member of Mt. Carmel parish, Catholic Youth Organization of St. Anne parish and the Alofama Organization Missionary branch of the Marist Sisters.

Members of her family include her husband, John Simili of Methuen; son and daughter-in-law, David M. and Nancy A. Simili of Andover; sisters, Leah Tremblay of Sarasota, Fla., and Sister Cecile Mailloux of the Marist Sisters of Lexington; grandchildren, Jennifer L. Simili of Methuen, Caitlin E. Simili and Rachel A. Simili, both of Andover; and several nieces and nephews.

A Mass was celebrated Monday at Mt. Carmel Church in Methuen. Burial was in Immaculate Conception Cemetery.

Arrangements were by Racicot Funeral Home in Lawrence.

Josephine Gioia

Red Sox fan, formerly lived here

Josephine "Jo" (Zepkoski) Gioia, 76, formerly of Andover, died Monday, July 12, at Lawrence General Hospital. She had most recently resided at Prescott Nursing Home in North Andover.

Mrs. Gioia was educated in Lowell and was a graduate of Lowell High School. She worked as an engineer's aide at Raytheon Corp. for 12 years.

Her family said she enjoyed music, dancing, crocheting afghans, working in her garden and traveling with her husband, Alfred Gioia. The couple had traveled to Hawaii seven times.

Mrs. Gioia was an avid Red Sox fan. Her family said she predicted this was the year the Sox would win the pennant.

Besides her husband, members of her family include her brothers, John, Alphonse, Walter, Stanley and Michael Zepkoski, all of Lowell; seven nieces and three nephews.

Friends may call Wednesday, July 14, from 7 to 9 p.m. at Cataudella Funeral Home, 160 Garden St., Lawrence.

A Mass will be celebrated today, Thursday, at 10:30 a.m. at Holy Rosary Church in Lawrence. Entombment will be in the Immaculate Conception Mausoleum in Lawrence.

Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Albina Cahill

Worked in industry and as a nurse

Albina (Kibildis) Cahill, 84, of Walker Avenue, died Sunday, July 11, at Holy Family Hospital in Methuen.

Mrs. Cahill was born in Lawrence and educated in Lawrence schools. She was a graduate of the Tewksbury State Hospital School of Nursing and was employed as a private duty nurse. She later worked at Craig Systems and Raytheon as an assembler, then returned to private duty nursing, from which she retired about 20 years ago.

Members of her family include her daughter, Jacqueline M. Hering of Andover; brother, Boles "Bill" Kibildis of East Hartford, Conn.; grandchildren, Krista J. Veit of Methuen, Wendy E. Hering of Phoenix, Ariz., and David J. Hering of Lawrence; great-granddaughter, Leah Hering of Lawrence; and a nephew.

She was the widow of John Cahill.

Private funeral services will be held at the convenience of the family. Burial will take place in the Lithuanian National Cemetery in Methuen.

There will be no calling hours. Arrangements are under the direction of the Boles Memorial-Baron Funeral Home, 184 Jackson St., Lawrence.

Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Fayette T. Lanier

Lived here for 27 years

Fayette T. (Smith) Lanier, 67, of South Main Street, died Thursday, July 8, at her home.

Mrs. Lanier was born in Macon, Ga., and had lived in Andover for 27 years.

She belonged to the Andover Senior Center.

Marion M. Davis

Former AHS teacher

Marion M. Davis, 66, a former Andover High School teacher, died Saturday, June 19, at her home in Starboard, Maine. She was a former Andover resident.

Mrs. Davis was born in Boston and was the daughter of Otis W. and Christine (Newton) Means.

She was a graduate of Newton High School and the University of New Hampshire.

Mrs. Davis taught home economics, child development and special education at Andover High School.

She and her late husband, Elwyn N. Davis, retired to Maine, where she taught English and special education at Machias Memorial High School in Machias.

She was a member of St. Adain Episcopal Church in Machias, the Hannah Weston chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, Byron McPheter's Garden Club, the Sierra Club and the Nature Conservancy.

Mrs. Davis was an author of children's books and was the proprietor of Starboard Cove Publishing Co., and Starboard Cove Bed and Breakfast.

She was the widow of Elwyn N. Davis, who died in 1981, and members of her family include her sons, Jeffrey Davis of Bucks Harbor, Maine, Neil Davis and his wife, Julie, of Sedgewick, Maine, and Mark Davis and his wife, Lidia, of San Diego, Calif.; brother, Frederic Means and his wife, Eilene, of Connecticut; sisters-in-laws, Janet Means of Lake Bluff, Ill., and Clara Means of Ukiah, Calif.; three grandsons, two granddaughters, and several nieces and nephews.

Arrangements were by Gardner Hall Funeral Home of Machias, Maine.

Mary Mueller

Rockport shop owner

Mary Alice (McGuigan) Mueller, of Washington Park Drive, died Tuesday, July 13, at Wilmington Wood Nursing Home.

Mrs. Mueller was born in Manchester, N.H. She was the daughter of the late Terrence P. and Sarah A. (Crotty) McGuigan. She was educated in the Manchester public schools and attended Hesser College School of Accounting and Finance. She had lived in Rockport and Manchester, N.H.

Mrs. Mueller owned and operated the Singing Sands Gift Shop in Rockport. Before that she had worked in various area gift shops.

In 1948 she was chosen as the Manchester Union Leader's Woman of the Year for her work as director of activities at Grenier Field. Mrs. Mueller was a member of the St. Augustine's Church of Lawrence, the League of Catholic Women and was the former president of the St. Claire's League of Lawrence.

Members of her family include her husband of 52 years, William O. Mueller Sr., of Andover; son, William O. Mueller Jr. of Contoocook, N.H.; daughter, Sarasue and her husband, Alan, Dick of Haverhill; six grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held

Friday at 9:30 a.m. at the H.L. Farmer and Sons Funeral Home, 106 Summer St. Haverhill. A Mass will follow at 11 a.m. at St. Augustine Church in Lawrence.

Interment will be private, and at the convenience of the family.

Friends may call today, Thursday, at the funeral home from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Andover Senior Center Council on Aging, Bartlet Street, Andover, Mass. 01810, or to St. Joseph's School, 56 Oak Terrace, Haverhill, Mass. 01830.

Impact of education reform bill on Andover underway are sensible and are going to do good for the state as a whole," said Superintendent Mark McQuillan.

The law "has flaws. It regulates in ways that you might not want it to, but it provides direction," he said.

According to Dr. McQuillan, one of the biggest changes under the law is that the state Department of Education now has more regulatory control over standardizing curriculum statewide, setting student- and teacher-performance standards, evaluating, collecting and distributing data on those performances, and mandating minimum spending levels for staff development, textbook, equipment and technology purchases. Just what those performance standards and funding minimums are have yet to be determined, but Dr. McQuillan believes Andover will be at, or above, any newly established mandates.

Reform means less power for school committees

The new law may have given more power to the state education board, but it has taken away power from school committees, which no longer have authority to hire and fire personnel, except for the superintendent and assistant superintendent.

Prospective teachers and other school personnel will now be screened by a panel of teachers, parents and the school building principal where the position is open. The principal will then hire the employee if he or she receives the superintendent's approval for that candidate.

School Committee member Mary Lyman doesn't believe that this change has to be a negative one for the Andover committee. Asked if she believes shifting hiring power to principals may make the process more politically charged and susceptible to hiring personal favorites, Ms. Lyman reluctantly said yes.

"Yes there is a chance. But, on the other hand, the principal has to hire a competent staff. If (principals) make the wrong hiring choice, they are responsible.

"I think you would learn that you'd want to make the job as apolitical a process as possible," she said.

Ms. Lyman believes that giving principals more hiring and some firing power enable them to pick the professionals they need in their buildings. "After all," said Ms. Lyman, "they are going to have to work with these people."

More responsibility and less job security for principals

Under the new legislation principals will have more authority to run their schools, but they have less job security. Once existing contracts expire, principals no longer will be able to negotiate a new contract as a bargaining unit of Andover public school principals. Each principal will have to negotiate individually with the superintendent. Andover principals have two years remaining in their three-year contract.

Sam Campbell, principal of West Middle School, said for the most part he's not worried about not being part of a principals' union in the future.

"Yes there is less job security, but personally I'm not bothered with that. If I thought I wasn't doing a good job I don't think I should be allowed to stay ... and they should get someone who would," he said.

On the other hand, said Dr. Campbell, he realizes that when he goes to negotiate a new contract in two years he will have much less leverage as an individual, than principals used to have as a union member.

Charlie Friel, principal of West Elementary School, said he welcomes the opportunities to expand "site-based management" that has been practiced in Andover for many years.

"I see (Andover's practices) as kind of a model. We have done a lot in Andover over the years with participatory decision-making at the school level. It flows right down to the individual classrooms where students have classroom meetings at the beginning of the year to determine classroom rules," he said.

Not what it seems

Andover Selectman Gerald Silverman, who is the principal of Georgetown High School, said the new law does not give principals as much power as many people think.

The law "took away a lot of rights from the principal and gave nothing back," he said.

"The only thing we can do is expel. With hiring and firing we still have to get an OK from the superintendent," said Mr. Silverman.

Suspension authority

The new law says principals must expel any student caught on school grounds with a weapon, firearm, or controlled substance - alcohol or drugs. And the school committee must be informed in writing if students are not expelled for those violations, said Ms. Lyman, who recently attended a conference on the new law.

According to Ms. Lyman, tobacco products, including cigarettes and chewing tobacco, are now prohibited on school grounds even for teachers. Parking lots and athletic fields are "on school grounds."

Before the law was enacted, Andover public school students were not allowed to smoke on school grounds, but teachers and school department employees in the school office building were allowed to smoke in designated areas. This will no longer be the case, said Dr. McQuillan. He said he and School Committee members, who will still be the ones who are legally responsible for establishing school policy, will sit down before school begins and determine what the consequences will be for students, teachers and school employees who break the rule.

The new law now allows community police chiefs to do criminal background checks on potential and current school employees if requested to do so by the superintendent of schools. In the past, superintendents were not privileged to that information, said Ms. Lyman.

Next week the Townsman will talk with education officials in town about other changes initiated by the new mandates including new opportunities for parent and community members to become involved in education, how financing education at the state and local levels will change and what one teachers' union officials thinks of the new law.

Two families experience a week without TV until Monday, July 12, without watching it.

"It has helped the kids be more creative in thinking of things to do now that they are not programmed," said Mr. Trombly.

"Max has been working on a tree house. Now he is spending time thinking about how to do it, and Eric opened his Lego box that he hasn't looked at in a long while," he said.

Max said he and his brother usually watch about 12 hours of TV each week, "mostly cartoons." Their parents estimate they themselves usually watch about four hours of TV a week.

Instead of watching TV, Max read three books during the past week and his brother has read 14 children's books. Max said he is now reading the entire newspaper, instead of just the comics.

"It hasn't been hard at all. I have lots of stuff to do," said Max.

Asked what he did during his newfound time, Max listed swimming in his family's pool, practicing with his swim team at the YMCA and taking sailing lessons.

Mr. Trombly said he saw the "no TV for a week challenge" in the Townsmen several weeks ago and thought about suggesting it to his family, but decided against it because he didn't want to pressure them. He said he was a little surprised, but "delighted to hear Max bring up the idea at the dinner table."

Ms. Trombly said the experience has brought Max and Eric closer together. Max read a book to his younger brother last week and built a target for him to shoot at with his new suction-cup pistol.

Another plus, she said, is that "if there are jobs to do around the house (the children) are much more likely to volunteer. Their dispositions are better, despite the heat," she added.

The Timko family

Judy and Mike Timko, of 6 Berkeley Lane, agree that forgoing TV has been a positive experience for them and their two children, Andy, 11, and Lindsey, 7. They stopped watching TV Thursday, July 1, and finished their self-imposed ban on Sunday, July 11.

Ms. Timko said she usually doesn't watch too much TV, but her children watch it about 10 hours a week and her husband watches about twice that amount.

On Friday nights the Timko children usually see two or three shows before they go to bed. The first Friday night without TV they played board games, said Ms. Timko. She said her husband has missed watching Star Trek and the news, to learn about the next day's weather.

She said he has turned on the television a few times during the TV fast "just to watch the weather, but then he turned it right off."

"I think he misses TV more than the children," she said.

Mr. Timko said at first he wasn't sure he wanted to participate in the exercise. But now that the week and a half is over, he doesn't think he missed watching TV after all.

"Every now and then I felt oppressed that I couldn't just turn on the news, but I didn't hit too many of those low points," he said.

Besides, he added, "Summer is all reruns."

Mr. Timko said he usually watches TV in two different ways. Sometimes he sits down with a particular show in mind. Other times he sits down in front of the television and clicks through the channels to find "whatever is least objectionable to watch," he said.

Sunday night, when the family completed its self-imposed TV ban, Mr. Timko said he sat down to watch. He searched through the channels but couldn't find a show that interested him.

"I felt stupid sitting there," he said.

One of the best outcomes of a week and a half without TV, said Ms. Timko, is that her house was less noisy and has remained more peaceful, even this week.

"In the evening it's quieter. Now I'll sit in the family room and read a book. Before, I wouldn't. (Mike) would be constantly switching the TV (channels) and there would be too much background noise and back and forth yelling, 'I can't hear the TV,'" she said.

Her son, Andy, likes watching Red Sox baseball games, but for the past week and a half he has been following the ball club's progress by reading the newspaper. Ms. Timko and her daughter, Lindsey, bought some books to read during their hiatus from TV watching.

Ms. Timko said her children have spent more time than usual playing with friends, swimming in the family's pool and using the family computer.

"Because the children had done so well in school this year we bought them computer games they wanted. (Lindsey's) game is a reading game and (Andy's) is more of a pure entertainment one," she said.

"Even my husband has spent more time on the computer and we both have gotten to the magazines that have been sitting around the house," said Ms. Timko.

Less TV in the future

Both families have decided to continue their regime of less TV. Ms. Timko said her family has come to the conclusion "that there are many other, and most often better alternatives to watching the tube."

She said her family has decided to limit the number of hours they watch TV and to choose what they will watch more carefully.

The Tromblys reached the same conclusion. Ms. Trombly said her family will sit down together and pick a couple of shows to watch each week.

Next week the Townsman will talk with another family or two that gave up TV for a short time.

Timko family members enjoy an afternoon of board games and conversation while they go without television for a short time. In the photo are, from left, Lindsey, Andy, Judy and Mike Timko.

Lindsay and Andy Timko say they had no problem giving up TV. Here they play a game of pool.

The Tromblys, Eric, Diane, Max and John, read on their front porch.

Selectmen defer Shawsheen Square decision

By Don Staruk

Selectmen Monday night refused to take any action on proposed traffic changes for Shawsheen Square because Shawsheen area residents had not been notified of the proposed changes or had a chance to discuss them in an open forum.

John Kennedy, of Vanasse Hangen Brustlin Inc., the traffic engineers working on the Shawsheen Square traffic changes, told the board that adding a protected left turn from Route 28 northbound onto Lowell or Poor streets without making any changes to the existing curb lines, as requested by selectmen two months ago, would only worsen the current traffic delays in the square.

He recommended cutting out the traffic island on Route 28 and adding a third northbound lane with the left hand lane designated a left-turn-only lane.

None of the selectmen liked the idea of completely removing the traffic island and at least two other options were considered.

One idea was to shave the island by two feet, just enough to get a third lane in without removing the entire barrier. A second option, recommended by Chairman Bill Downs, was to shave the curb on the east side of Route 28 and leave the traffic island alone.

That's about when Mary O'Donoghue, leader of a Shawsheen-area residents group, walked in to the selectmen's meeting. Ms. O'Donoghue, of 3 Kenilworth St., told board members she was up on a ladder painting at home when a neighbor called and told her the Shawsheen Square traffic changes were being discussed at the televised selectmen's meeting. She said she had called Laura Hill, senior planner and who was at the meeting, about something else earlier Monday and was not told that the traffic changes were on the agenda for the selectmen's meeting.

"I am absolutely disgusted," Ms. O'Donoghue said. "We want to be informed. And we want to be involved."

Before Ms. O'Donoghue showed up, at least one board member had questioned why the residents hadn't been notified. But they all agreed that it made no sense to continue the discussion without the residents after Ms. O'Donoghue arrived and scolded them.

Selectman James Barenboim made a motion to continue the discussion at a meeting when the Shawsheen residents can be present for the discussion and the others members agreed to do that.

That discussion could take place at the next board meeting, on July 26, or at the Aug. 9 meeting. Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said he will see to it that the residents are informed through Ms. O'Donoghue.

Enhanced 911 not here until '95

In other news from the board's meeting, selectmen were told Monday night that the enhanced 911 emergency telephone system is in the process of being installed in town but that it may be two years before the system operating.

"Right now we're talking 1995," police Sgt. Brian Pattullo told selectmen.

The system will give police and fire dispatchers the address and phone number of the location a person is calling from as soon as a call is answered, even if the caller hangs up. It will also give additional information on file, including the nearest fire hydrant locations or chemicals stored in the building. It will list the alarm systems in use, the number of persons who live at the home and even pertinent medical information that might be helpful in an emergency response.

The information will show up instantly on a screen and a hard copy will be printed out for ambulance or fire personnel to take with them on the call. The information will be relayed to police in their cruisers by the dispatchers.

Sgt. Pattullo told board members Monday night that he is in the midst of creating a master street address guide as part of preparing the town's computer system for being brought on line. Sgt. Pattullo has been working with several town departments to compile the master list and has found several variations of spellings of street names.

Every phone in town, including pay phones and business phones, has to be assigned a specific street address and number before the E-911 system can work.

In some instances, residents have assigned a number they like, such as their lucky number, to their address in the telephone book. In others, people have given a name to their driveway and used that as their address. All of these, as well as duplicate street numbers, have to be changed and assigned their correct address so the system can work.

The sergeant told selectmen that it is also now state law that every building has to have a visible street number on it. Failure to have a number on a house or building is punishable by a $100 fine after notification, and an additional $100 a day for every day the problem goes unrepaired.

One area that has been difficult to assign specific street addresses is at Phillips Academy. In many cases, the school lists addresses only by a house or dorm name. And a 911 call from most phones on campus only go to the school switchboard. The school is working directly with the phone company on the second problem.

PA and several of the large corporations in town are working with Sgt. Pattullo in assigning each phone an address. The sergeant expects the update of the street address list to take about six more months. It will take another year after that to get the entire data base computerized, he said.

Another part of the plan includes setting up back-up emergency dispatching in case Andover's communications are out, for whatever reason. In that case, emergency communications would move to North Andover and, if needed, Tewksbury.

Youth town meeting

Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools, told selectmen Monday night that he is anxious to work with them, and the Our Town group led by Selectman Larry Larsen, in organizing a youth town meeting to help get teens in town involved in civic government.

Dr. McQuillan said the town meeting form of government provides a great opportunity for youths to get involved in the Democratic process and he would like to see them get started earlier than their 18th birthday.

The pilot program of regularly scheduled class meetings already in use in schools is just a start, Dr. McQuillan said. He would like to see a series of opportunities to have students involved in government.

Selectmen Larsen said he would be willing to work with Dr. McQuillan in organizing the youth town meeting. Dr. McQuillan proposed that the group aim at having the youth town meeting on the same night as and prior to the April Town Meeting 1994.

Selectman Charles Wesson suggested that Dr. Larsen and Dr. McQuillan and the others who help organize the youth town meeting hand over much of the responsibility of running the meeting to the students. Mr. Wesson also pushed for organization of a career day when elected and appointed officials could come into the schools and talk to students about their roles in government.

GIRLS SOFTBALL

What follows is an account of recent girls softball action in Andover.

Blue Dolphins 20 - J-2 10

The fielding by the Blue Dolphins Liz Connors and Amy Herlihy checked J-2 scoring. Jessica Taylor in right field, Brianne Keefe at third base and Kristin Herlihy at short field contributed to the defense.

The play of the game was Colleen Bateson's outstanding catch to start a double play. Catcher Kate Witman heads-up play to Cara Chiaraluce at first base ended the fifth inning.

Morgan Jacobson slammed in a home run. The remaining offense came from Kristen Deluca, Katie Rogers, Becky Maddox and Rachel Hartman.

J-1 25 - J-6 17

Both teams were evenly matched. The J-1 team recorded the win with strong fielding including two great catches by Abby Denehy.

Rachel Albert closed the second inning by snatching a hard-hit ball. Shelby Ferris' key play in the sixth limited J-6 scoring.

Contributing to the win was Christine Sherry, Laura Stone and Jessica Ostrowski.

Blue M&M 16 - Cheeters 20

The Blue M&M played strong ball, but two strong innings by the Cheeters grabbed the win.

The Blue M & M fielding was led by Lindsey Pearson and Julie Barenholtz, key players in double play action.

In the third inning the Cheeters were checked by catcher Diana Peterson, who handled a pop-up, and Anna Vining catching a line drive. Contributing to the defense was Rachel Robinson. Lindsey Pearson led the Blue M & M offensive with a home run and three RBIs.

Pink Panthers 15 - Green Gators 21

Big hitters for the Pink Panthers were Katie Mullen and Rebecca McMahon. Kim Adleman played excellent defense.

Andover Bank 21 - Household Recycling 19

Both teams were evenly matched. Andover Bank's pitcher Diane Liu and Jessica Urbelis at first base were responsible for consecutive outs in the third.

Laura Deyermond, Kirsty Wright, and Katie Kramer contributed to the defense.

The Household Recycling defense was led by Brooke Torre. Contributing to the defense was Christine Shanahan and Lauren Hayes.

EDITORIALS

A chance to serve

There are several good opportunities in Andover right now for residents who have the time to perform important services for the town.

Town and school officials are looking for volunteers to serve on the School Building Committee, various subcommittees of the School Committee, the town's Zoning Board of Appeals, Andover Housing Partnership Committee/Fair Housing Committee, the Council on Aging, Design Advisory Group, Patriotic Holiday Committee, Planning Board, Conservation Commission and the Finance Committee. The latter appointment is made by Town Moderator James Doherty.

In addition, recently enacted education reform initiatives mandate for the coming school year that each school in the state establish an advisory committee comprised of parent and non-parent community members. School principals will appoint the members and co-chairpersons of those committees. Another school-related committee that needs members is the superintendent's Equity Coalition Task Force, an advisory group that combats prejudice.

Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski will appoint five new members to the School Building Committee. Once a nine-member board has been established, members will begin to look over the School Committee's education specifications for additions to South and Sanborn elementary schools and to Andover High School. The SBC's mandate is to determine the most economically- and educationally-sound plan to add on to those buildings. That plan will go back to the School Committee to devise an approach to fund the additions.

Residents who are interested in serving on the SBC or other town boards should contact the town manager's office. Those interested in serving on school subcommittees should contact the office of Mark McQuillan, superintendent of schools.

Dad writes on vandalism to son's property

Guest columnist Michael Frishman said he wrote the following some time ago "and hesitated. The problem has not gone away - my reticence has abated."

By Michael Frishman

It is just a little thing, really. Andy's seventh-grade English class received new literature books. He brought his home, we put a cover on it, the next day he left the book in the rack on the side of his chair at the end of his last period English class.

When he retrieved the book the next day the clean new cover was gone, the book had a couple of torn and wrinkled pages and some kind of purplish-blue fruit had been mashed and smeared on random pages throughout the book; the bookplate he signed and which indicated he had been given a new book now had a bold, ironic "mint" in wide black-marker scrawl.

What now?

Should Andy have to learn that the hazard of forgetfulness is the likelihood of malicious destruction, an escalation of mere inconvenience? Will that be all he remembers in years to come when he reflects on his seventh-grade year of English - that every time he picked up his literature anthology he saw a purple mess reminding him of the ever-increasingly malignant hazards of simple human lapses? Is he philosophic, angered, humored, indifferent or maybe himself inspired to cheap vandalism?

Guest Column

Am I over-reacting about what is an insignificant - and not very serious at that - besmirching of a not very important book; after all, aren't people more important than property? Wasn't there the night I bashed with my umbrella a speeding, red-light-running BMW at a New York City intersection when my quickwittedness is all that saved my and my wife's lives. The driver screamed at me that I couldn't do that to personal property. I screamed back that he couldn't do that to a person.

What about that report that says we live on one-acre islands in a sea of ostrich-headed apathy where our children are being raised in a materialistic moral vacuum that drives them to vandalism, sex, drugs and drink - not necessarily in that order - because we parents have more money than time for them? Our friends don't resemble that bleak picture of our community. I scoffed, sneered and was offended. Didn't the report totally lack local statistical substantiation, sample an impossibly biased group of respondents, lack positive suggestions for remedy?

Is Andy going to be embarrassed! That one is not a question. Adolescents hate it when their parents do this sort of thing to them. But how could I have such a personal reaction anonymously? And how do I feel about fingers pointing at me and Andy? Writing this down helps me understand why my reaction to vandalism is so visceral. It's such a waste (how many are the better ways to spend the taxpayer's already begrudged dollars?), it's such a futile insult (my attention is gained, but I don't feel charitable), it leaves me feeling angry and helpless (there is pleasure and concentration lost to the distracting results). Or is this

She has found Indian head pennies, silver coins, buffalo nickels, an 1830s coin and several three-cent pieces. She also has unearthed artifacts worn by early soldiers.

A longtime student of Andover history and a lifetime resident, Ms. Logan has spent many hours at the Andover Historical Society researching historical sites that have the potential to be coin- and artifact-rich digs.

Ms. Logan found many of her treasures within the downtown, where Andover first was settled. Coins would often fall out of the pockets of Andover soldiers and workers as they gathered to chat under the trees, she said.

"I don't leave any holes. I just cut a tiny circle with a little knife. I take out the plug and fill it right in. I even fill in animal holes. After it rains there aren't any traces left," she said.

Coins and other objects tend to rise near the surface after rainstorms, she explained. Her 6000/D1 Coinmaster makes a high whining sound when it senses a metal object within six inches of the surface. The arrow on the dial near the handle identifies the type of metal and denomination of coin.

Ms. Logan said it's important not to polish old coins because that destroys their value. Just wash them off with water or a little olive oil to take off surface dirt, she suggested.

Ms. Logan recently found an old medal medallion from Winona Mills in the Midwest and is corresponding with the company to find out the medal's significance.

There's a great deal of excitement doing the historical research and making the finds, said Ms. Logan. She loves history and has roots in town. Her great uncle, Bill Poland, owned Poland Sporting Goods.

Ms. Logan listened as a youngster to many stories of her immigrant ancestors who came to work in the mills of Lawrence from England and Scotland. She went exploring as a child to find pennies that her father hid and is familiar with Indian sites in the area. She said she read all the Nancy Drew mysteries.

Her friend, Bob Scott, has found several treasures on the site where the Mall at Rockingham is now located in Salem, N.H. The area was a cable car stop in the 1930s. Bostonians would make the journey north to watch car races on a wooden track. At that site he unearthed a $2 1/2 gold coin, which is very rare and worth more $200 dollars, he said.

Metal detecting in The Park on Bartlet Street can be a rewarding experience, especially the Sunday after Clown Town, they said.

Mr. Scott said he found enough coins in a year to pay for his $350 detector.

Barbara Thibault, director of the Andover Historical Society, and her staff helped Ms. Logan identify residences and businesses in older parts of town. The society has maps dating back to 1795. In addition, the society has thematic books on coins and artifacts that Ms. Logan used to identify her finds.

Her goal? "I want to find a gold coin," said Ms. Logan.

Delvina Beaulieu celebrated her 97th birthday on July 7.

Mrs. Beaulieu, who lives with her daughter, Beatrice Cloutier, on Clark Road, is the grandmother of Jeanne Mills, great-grandmother of Chris Emmert (who is an MP in the U.S. Army), and great-great-grandmother of Joshua Michael Emmert.

Mrs. Beaulieu moved from Methuen to Andover in her teen years and lived on a farm on Andover Street in Ballardvale where her daughter, Beatrice, was born.

Mrs. Cloutier said that her mother is in good health and still goes out.

"She was an avid card player when she was younger," Mrs. Cloutier said. "She used to win all the prizes."

have become involved with their small cottage industry of making tables that look like animals. They say it's "a sample of what Andover retired people get into."

Mr. Arakelian, a retired designer for the telephone company, and Mrs. Arakelian, a former Bancroft teacher, spend four to five hours designing, constructing and painting each little table in the shape of cows, pigs, cats, giraffes and even dinosaurs.

"We do the design for each type of animal," Mrs. Arakelian said. "We use our own patterns, and sometimes do research at the library or copy a picture."

They sell the tables for $10 to $125 at local craft shows or at stores such as Half Moon Harry in Rockport or the Mary Curtis Shop in Concord.

The custom designed tables can be used for end tables or coffee tables with storage inside.

"It's like a little chest inside the table," Mrs. Arakelian explained. "Some people have them in their family rooms. My nieces brought their's to college. Whatever the tables are used for, they make a great conversation piece."

Gold blasts
Wilmington

By Rick Harrison

Andover Gold of the Suburban Pony League blasted Wilmington, 26-6, swept a doubleheader from North Reading (9-2 and 11-1), tied the Reading Rockets (3-3), and dropped tough decisions to the Methuen Police (13-10) and Lowell (10-7) in recent action.

Those results left Gold at 5-4-1 overall as they prepare to host Medford No. 1 tomorrow night at Andover High (5:45 p.m.).

Andover Gold, 26-6

Gold erupted for nine runs in the bottom of the first at Andover High, taking control early against the Wilmington Wildcats.

Starting and winning pitcher Mark O'Sullivan (four innings), Pat Annese (two innings) and Mark Tropeano (one inning) combined for a seven-hit-

Two-run singles by Jon Adams and Brad Batchelder keyed the big first-inning.

Dave Salafia and O'Sullivan finished the game with three hits and four RBI each, Annese slugged an RBI triple, and Joe Maglio added two singles and two RBI.

Scott Ciruso laced two singles and was robbed of a third hit, Tropeano had two safeties, Dan Gosselin reached base four times (single, three walks) and scored four runs, and joining the 19-hit parade with singles were Steve Vickers, Andy Henderson and Pat Sharkey.

AG turned two more double plays, one involving second baseman Vickers, first baseman Maglio and third baseman O'Sullivan and the other shortstop Tropeano, Pat Sharkey and Maglio.

Gold fell behind the undefeated defending league champs 7-1 and 9-3 early, exploded for seven runs in the top of the fourth to take a 10-9 lead, and then fell as Methuen rallied to score four runs in the bottom of the fifth frame at Pelham Street.

In the seven-run fourth Keith Grant reached on an error, Mark O'Sullivan walked, Mark Tropeano singled to load the bases, Brad Batchelder ripped a two-run single, Andy Henderson had an RBI single, Pat Sharkey singled, Dave Salafia stroked a two-run single to tie it and Jon Adams' RBI single put Gold ahead.

Trailing 13-10 in the seventh, AG threatened when Salafia was hit by a pitch and Grant singled. But Methuen High varsity pitcher Mark Ruggiero bore down to put out the fire.

Salafia finished with two hits and Pat Annese slammed a triple.

Defensively shortstop Tropeano and first baseman Dan Gosselin were sharp.

Salafia, the third of four Gold pitchers, suffered the loss. Brad Batchelder and lefties Annese and Gosselin also pitched.

Expos defeat Padres for championship

The Expos defeated the Padres, 4-2, to win the Andover Little League Junior 13-year-old Town Championship.

The Expos had a rags to riches season, starting the campaign in the cellar after losing early games to the Padres, Blue Jays and Brewers.

The team came together at the right time, however, authoring a lengthy winning streak and finishing the regular season with a 7-4-1 overall record for second place in the standings.

The Expos then rocked the Jays 8-1 in the first round of the playoffs, setting up the Town Championship battle with the Padres.

The title game featured strong pitching, timely hitting and error-free defense by the champs.

The complete Expos team roster consists of Mike Anderson, Pat Collins, Jeff Cutler, Chintan Gandhi, Peter Hill, John Hogan, James Kremer, Chris Lane, Mike Licata, Ethan Murphy, Will Olney, Scott Petersen, Chris Sand and Scott Shainker.

Managers were Buzz Cutler and Rick Petersen.

Heseltine plays for soccer championship

By Rick Harrison

Amy Heseltine, former Andover High soccer and ski team All-Scholastic who recently completed her freshman year at Providence College, will be playing for a National soccer championship in Phoenix, Arizona July 21-25.

Amy will leave for Phoenix within the next few days as a member of the Greater Boston Bolts women's under-19 team, which won the 1993 Massachusetts State Cup and Eastern Regional 1 Championship Tournament in Princeton, N.J.

The Bolts are the most successful team in Massachusetts Youth Soccer Association history.

Miss Heseltine, who played with the Greater Essex Club until it disbanded and then joined the Greater Boston Bolts, anchors the Eastern Regional titlists' defensive corps at the sweeper position.

The sweeper is the quarterback of the defense, coordinating play with the wing fullbacks and stopperback as well as taking the brunt of the responsibility for breaking up opponents' plays, blocking shots and protecting the goaltender.

She is the only Andover resident on the team, which is comprised of young women from all over the state who are top Division 1 college athletes or recruits.

Because Amy has turned 19 this will be her final year as a member of the Bolts.

Greater Boston, with Miss Heseltine in a major role, allowed just one goal in five Eastern Regional games while outscoring the opposition by an impressive 17-1 margin at Princeton.

The Bolts opened with consecutive 3-0 wins over Eastern Pennsylvania and New Hampshire, defeated Western Pennsylvania 4-1 in the quarterfinals and the Columbia, Maryland Crusaders 2-0 in the semifinals.

Amy Heseltine

The championship final was no contest as Greater Boston blasted Virginia state champ Vista United 5-0 for the title.

This is the second straight year and fourth time in five years the Bolts have been in the Regional final. They lost to New Jersey state champ Willingboro 2-1 in overtime last summer. That game was decided by penalty kicks, with New Jersey edging Greater Boston 7-6.

Coach Don Satter's Bolts will be one of just four teams, all Regional champs from different parts of the country, competing for the National title in Phoenix.

Greater Boston, 19-2 overall, will face Cincinnati F.C. Hammer in the opening round.

The Bolts are the first team in the history of Massachusetts youth soccer to go to the USYSA National Championships.

Miss Heseltine had a fine freshman campaign for the Providence College soccer team last fall, and she will play for the Friars once again in September.

In addition to competing for and traveling with the Bolts, Amy is keeping busy this summer working at Athletes Corner in downtown Andover and as a counselor at several soccer camps including those at Harvard University, University of Connecticut and Phillips Academy.

The Bolts roster:

Amy Heseltine (Andover, Providence College), Kim Boyle (Marlboro High and UNH), Amy Burrill (Newton North, going to Barry University), Sarah Dacey (Framingham, going to UNorth Carolina), Jen Daly (Masconomet, going to Cornell), Kelly Desmond (Duxbury, going to UVermont), Karen DeVoe (Auburn and Boston College), Carla Evans (Hanover, UVirginia), Jen Gilpatric (Winchester, UVirginia), Laurie Greer (Cardinal Spellman, going to Brown).

Cindy Goodwin (Dover Sherborn, going to Dartmouth), Hilary Horner (Amherst, N.H., UVirginia), Sarah Moon (Belmont, going to URI), Lori Penny (Auburn and Cornell), Marilyn Pompeo (Weymouth and Providence College), Jen Ratay (Harvard, going to Dartmouth), Mindy Thompson (Windsor School).

Andover's Hoops for Hope team boasts 4-1 record

By Rick Harrison

The Andover team in the Varsity Division of the Hoops for Hope summer basketball league at Sullivan Park in Lawrence boasted a 4-1 record after a big win over previously-undefeated Lowell in their sizzling (both the weather and the emotions) showdown battle last Sunday night.

The Junior Varsity team was 2-1 at the same juncture.

The varsity's lone loss came to Methuen when Andover was undermanned, several of its top players having prior commitments.

The Lowell win was crucial, however, keeping the locals near the top of the heap with Lowell, Lawrence and surprisingly-strong Whittier.

Whittier, which entered this week's play as the lone unbeaten team in the Varsity Division, will tap off against Andover on Thursday, July 29.

Top scorers to date for the Varsity, which is also 3-1 in play at the Salem (Ma.) Starlight Camp, have been 1992-93 high school varsity standouts Eric Danis, Kirk Stockwood, Tom Tanin and Matt Gibson.

Guard Kirk Stockwood pumped in 20 points to pace Andover past Lowell, while forward Eric Danis added 18 and Matt Gibson 12.

"Both teams were ready and came loaded with all their big guns," said Hoops for Hope director Jim Arnold. "It was an excellent game, played with a lot of emotion. You could tell the teams are heated rivals (during the winter in the Merrimack Valley Conference).

"Andover has an excellent (summer) squad, Lowell is back on the rise (the school's incoming sophomore class is loaded with talent), and Whittier looks good enough to be a state Division 3 contender next winter."

Ken Oppenheim, who splits time between the Varsity and JV teams in the summer, is one of the leading point producers for the Andover Juniors along with Pat Sharkey, Paul McNeice, Joe Long and Rick Mendez.

The Varsity, with earlier wins over the Derry Astros, Haverhill and Central Catholic, faces Lawrence Fleet tonight (7:30 p.m.) and battles Salem, N.H. next Thursday (8:45 p.m.).

They will also be among the favorites in the upcoming 20-team Hoops for Hope Tournament July 23-25.

The Juniors are in action next Monday night against the Derry Jets (7:30 p.m.), and also face Masconomet next Wednesday (7:30 p.m.).

All games are played at the outdoor Sullivan Park courts.

Following are the complete rosters for the two Andover entries in Hoops for Andover Post 8 American Legion team remains on course despite losses

By Rick Harrison

Despite dropping two of its most recent three games, the Andover Post 8 American Legion baseball team remained pretty much on course as it braced for the regular season homestretch.

"We're still in first place in the Zone (8A) and we have to be happy with that," said Manager Joe Iarrobino. "Our main goal before the season began was to win the Zone championship, but it won't be easy now because two of our remaining three opponents are tough."

Making it harder on Andover were a 4-0 loss to Lynn Post 6 and a 9-8 setback to Haverhill in a wild, seesaw battle.

The defeats were sandwiched around a 10-4 victory over Beverly, which left Post 8 with a 10-3 overall record heading into tonight's contest against powerful Revere (10-2) at Beachmont Field in Revere (6 p.m.).

Andover then closes with a pair of home games, hosting Saugus on Saturday (5 p.m.) and Zone 8A rival Lawrence Post 15 next Monday (6 p.m.).

"We need one more win to guarantee ourselves at least a wild card berth in the playoffs," noted Manager Iarrobino. "In the race for the Zone title Lawrence is still alive (at 6-4-1) and Methuen has an outside shot with six losses. We opened the door for Lawrence with the two losses."

If both teams stay on track next Monday's finale could be a winner-take-all showdown for the Zone 8A crown.

"Revere will have some extra incentive because we swept them in the playoffs last year. I'm sure we'll face their ace pitcher, Spinelli, who was an All-Scholastic at Revere High this spring and threw a couple of no-hitters. He's a very highly-regarded prospect."

"We beat him in the playoffs last summer, but he's bigger (6'3," over 200 pounds) and stronger now."

"Wherever we go we know we're going to face the other team's best pitcher," continued Iarrobino. "Every one wants to beat us because we were undefeated last year, and only lost three and four games the two previous seasons."

"It will be Justin's (Hesenius) turn to pitch against Revere. He's been suffering from fatigue the past couple times out. Between hockey, high school baseball and now Legion he hasn't had much time off. He plays in the field for us when he doesn't pitch because we need his bat. He's a workhorse but he should be rested for Revere."

Toby Guzowski, a hard-throwing left-hander who last pitched as a freshman and in Pony League, could make a return to the mound as the starter against Saugus.

"Toby's been working very hard to regain his pitching form and he's looked pretty good in a couple of recent workouts," observed Manager Iarrobino.

Undefeated Matt Marvin, 4-0, is the scheduled starter in the finale against Lawrence.

"Matt has been the No. 1 surprise of the season," said Iarrobino. "He's been sensational on the mound. He's focused, he's working hard, and even though he's struggled occasionally he's come up with the big outs."

"Justin's credentials speak for themselves, and with Justin and Matt as our 1-2 pitching punch we're in good shape. Todd Murray is still not 100 percent (shoulder problems), but we have Gus Quattlebaum as our No. 3 starter if Todd's arm doesn't come around."

"The last few games we haven't played well in the field. I'm disappointed with our inability to get people out in key situations, and hopefully we'll regroup defensively for the stretch run."

"We're a young team, with only five 18-year-old players, and that means we'll have 12 kids returning next year."

"Paul Allard has done a fine job behind the plate. Even though he didn't catch during the high school season he's been outstanding defensively. No one has run against us."

"Todd Harris is making the big plays at shortstop, and when he's healthy Mike Sullivan (hamstring) has been a great leadoff batter, excellent on the basepaths and terrific in center field. He covers so much ground with his speed."

Sullivan was white-hot at the plate last week, returning to the lineup and going 7-for-9 after making three outs in his first three at-bats against Lynn.

Sullivan is hitting .556 for the season on 10-for-18.

Justin Hesenius is tops in RBI with 16, Gus Quattlebaum has 11 and Todd Harris 10.

On the mound, Matt Marvin has yielded just 11 hits and eight earned runs in 29.2 innings while striking out 40 and walking 24.

Hesenius has surrendered 19 hits and five earned runs in 29 innings, fanning 27 and walking 15.

Lynn Post 6, 4 Andover 0

You have to dig back in the archives a long way to find the last time Andover Post 8 was shut out, or the last time Justin Hesenius lost a game on the mound.

Both rarities occurred on this night, however, in a non-league contest that began after a brief but strong thundershower and ended as darkness began to enshroud the Andover High field.

Hesenius (4-1) didn't pitch badly, but wasn't his usual sharp self as he walked five, hit one batter and yielded four hits (one infield) and three runs (two earned) in five innings.

"I think the heat and the work load got to Justin a little bit," said Manager Iarrobino.

Reliever Gus Quattlebaum allowed two hits and the final run in the sixth before retiring Lynn 1-2-3 in the seventh.

Post 8 had a baserunners in four of the first six innings, but didn't mount a serious threat until the bottom of the seventh.

Righthander Mike Marini went the distance on the hill for Lynn Post 6, permitting four singles, walking four and whiffing five.

Matt Wolcott drew a one-out walk in the first, Quattlebaum singled to left and Hesenius walked on four pitches with one down in the fourth, Todd Harris rapped a leadoff single in the fifth and advanced to third, and Hesenius was issued a two-out walk in the sixth.

On each of those occasions, however, Marini got the big out when he needed it.

In the seventh Brian Flanagan punched a leadoff single to center and Todd Harris walked. The next two batters were retired on 3-2 pitches, but Mike Sullivan kept things alive with a single to center that loaded the bases.

Wolcott followed by lashing a sharp first-pitch grounder to third baseman Dave Palmer, who stepped on the bag for the forceout and the shutout.

Lynn scored one run in the second without a hit on a pair of walks, a hit batsman and a fielder's choice grounder by Scott Leblanc as Andover tried unsuccessfully for the inning-ending double play. Hesenius averted further trouble by picking the runner off first.

A delayed double steal made it 2-0 in the fourth as Marini spanked a two-out single, took third on Scott Spencer's single, and the stole home.

An infield hit by Jason Perez, two walks and another bases-loaded fielder's choice grounder by Mike Connolly accounted for the third run in the fifth. Spencer tripled and crossed on Rick Gill's second hit of the game to round out the scoring in the seventh.

Defensively Sullivan, in his first game back from a hamstring injury, made a nice

WHY KARATE FOR KIDS?

Self-confidence does not come naturally for many children, but rather it is developed over a period of time. As a child accomplishes new goals, his confidence level increases. Children become more self confident in karate because they progress individually at their own pace and are not judged against others.

Self defense Children's self defense takes many forms. Many parents worry about their children being safe on the street yet one of the real problems concerns a child's ability to defend himself against other kids. Karate teaches children to think instead of panic in potentially serious situations as well as how to react to threats from other kids.

Every Child Wins In karate every kid can be a winner instead of a bench sitter because karate allows children to reach for their own potential rather than directly compete against other kids.

Coordination Karate challenges the entire body developing coordination, balance, agility and poise often neglected in many team sports available to children in this age group.

Fun Karate lessons are a dynamic and challenging approach to the martial arts for children who are athletic, energetic, awkward or shy, bold, nice or maybe even a little wild once in awhile... karate is probably for a kid just like yours.

Our pledge We are dedicated to giving a child the most professional, well supervised and highest quality classes available in any sport anywhere!

Junior All-Stars enter week in good position to capture crown

By Rick Harrison

The Andover Junior 13-year-old All-Stars entered this week in good position to capture their second straight District 14 Little League Tournament championship.

However, three of the town's other four District 14 representatives exited the double-elimination tourney, while the other is one loss away from being ousted.

The Junior 13's entered last night's winner's bracket game against Chelmsford with a 2-0 record, having beaten Lowell Highland (7-5) and Lowell Callery (9-4).

The Andover American Major 11-12's are the other local team still alive, as they followed an 8-7 extra-inning loss to Tewksbury National with consecutive victories over Lowell Oliveria (10-7), Billerica National (19-0) and Lowell Callery (14-1).

They are trying to climb out of the loser's bracket, which they did successfully last year with eight straight wins before bowing to Haverhill in the District finals.

The Americans return to action tomorrow night, gunning for their fourth consecutive victory when they face Tewksbury American (2-1) at the Vining School field in Billerica (5:45 p.m.).

Andover National was banished to the loser's bracket after being beaten 9-2 by Lawrence Central, and ousted from the tourney with a 6-3 loss to Haverhill, following its first round 4-3 triumph over Billerica American in extra innings.

In the Senior 14-15 Division, Andover American (0-2) bowed out after losses to Tewksbury American and intra-town rival Andover National.

The Nationals (1-2) dropped a 3-2 heartbreaker to Chelmsford Lupien in their opener, defeated Andover American 19-1 in the second round, and then were bounced 14-3 by Billerica National.

This was the first year Andover was asked to field two Senior 14-15 teams.

MAJOR 11-12 DIVISION Andover American 10 Lowell Oliveria 7

The Americans rebounded from their tough extra-inning loss against Tewksbury National to oust Lowell Oliveria from the tournament.

The game was not as close as the final score indicated, as Andover held a 10-0 lead after four innings of play at the Chandler Road Field.

Wholesale substitutions by the Americans in the final two innings enabled Oliveria, which lost its tourney opener to Chelmsford Lupien 19-4, to climb back in contention with three runs in the fifth and four more in the sixth.

Righthander Chris Wholey pitched the first four innings and notched the victory, limiting Lowell to two hits and no runs while walking two and whiffing five.

Andover took a 2-0 lead in the bottom of the first when Christian Semere walked, Steve Arsenault walked, Nick Branzetti drew a one-out walk to load the bases, Semere raced across on a wild pitch, and Wholey helped himself with an RBI single.

The winners erupted for six runs in the third as Semere reached on an error, Arsenault walked,

Ryan Hanigan was hit by a pitch to load the bases, Branzetti spiked a run-scoring single, Wholey clouted a two-run double, Ted Witman rescued Branzetti with an infield out, and Bob Rawlinson ripped an RBI single.

The lead jumped to 10-0 in the fourth as Matt Kish singled, Hanigan walked, and both later scored on infield outs by Charlie Daher and Dave Nichols.

Chris Wholey finished the game with two hits and three RBI, Witman laced two singles, and Kevin Barry was a defensive standout in center field.

For Lowell Oliveria, the first team to exit the tourney, Randy Brodeur rapped a double and single while Rick Mireault had two singles.

Andover American 19 Billerica National 0

Righthanders Matt Drizen and Mark Rocca combined pitching talents for a one-hit shutout, striking out eight along the way, as the Americans rocked Billerica National.

Drizen didn't allow a hit in three innings, fanning five and walking four, while Rocca finished up with three frames of one-hit relief that included three strikeouts and no walks.

Andover did most of its damage early, scoring three runs in the top of the first, eight in the second and six more in the third inning.

Ryan Hanigan led the way with a perfect 4-for-4 night, giving him 10 hits in three games, and he also scored three runs and drove home two.

In the first inning Christian Semere walked, Hanigan belted an RBI double, Nick Branzetti drove home a run with an infield out, Chris Wholey doubled and Bob Rawlinson laced a run-scoring two-bagger.

Eleven batters paraded to the plate in the eight-run Andover second, which included a pair of walks, two Billerica National errors, two-run singles by Wholey and Kevin Barry, and an RBI single from Hanigan.

The score jumped to 17-0 in the third as Branzetti and Drizen lashed RBI singles, Rawlinson clouted a run-producing double and Tim Witman's fielder's choice rescued one.

In the winners' two-run fifth frame Rocca doubled, Semere belted an RBI double and Hanigan spanked an RBI single.

Wholey, Rawlinson and Barry backed up four-hit Hanigan with two safeties, two runs scored and two RBI each.

Defensive standouts were third baseman Charles Daher and Matt Kish, who split his time between second base and catcher.

Lawrence Central 9 Andover National 2

The Nationals were sent to the loser's bracket by Lawrence Central, which turned a 1-0 game its way with two runs in the third, two in the fourth and four runs in the top of the sixth.

The Central batterymates were huge, both the pitcher and catcher standing close to six-feet tall and weighing over 150 pounds.

After stranding runners at second and third base in the bottom of the first, Andover National scored a run in the third stanza when starting pitcher Rick Johnson grounded a double to center field, Patrick Murnane dropped a perfect bunt single down the third base line, and Johnson raced across on a wild pitch.

The second Andover run came in the fourth as Max Schorr singled, took second on a throwing error and scored on an overthrow.

The Nationals used four pitchers to try and stem the tide. Johnson started and was followed to the mound by Patrick Murnane, Paul Wysocki and Max Schorr.

Catcher Brian Kramer played a strong defensive game for Andover, hanging in a home to slap a tag on one of the hard-charging Central behemoths to end the second inning.

First baseman Matt Antaya also made a fine running catch in four territory with the bases loaded.

Haverhill 6

Andover National 3

Haverhill (2-1), the defending District 14 champ, scored two runs in the first, fourth and sixth innings to eliminate Andover National at Riverside Park in Haverhill Tuesday night.

Anthony Olenio tossed a four-hitter and struck out nine while pitching the distance for the winners.

Haverhill scored twice in the first inning when Matt Scamperino walked and Olenio clouted a two-run homer.

The Nationals came back with one run in their half of the stanza. Max Schorr and Dave Kodinsky walking before Paul Wysocki laced an RBI single.

A-N went down 1-2-3 in the next three innings, while Haverhill made it 4-1 in the fourth as Sean Sughrue doubled, R.J. Schena singled and Rolie Boucher rescued both with a two-run double.

Brian Kramer singled for Andover in the fifth but was left stranded.

Haverhill upped the lead to 6-1 in the sixth on walks to Ryan McGovern, Boucher, Adam Gagne and an error.

Andover National, home team by virtue of a coin flip, scored its final two in the bottom of the sixth. Rick Johnson doubled, Kodinsky walked and Dave Powers spanked a two-run single.

Dave Kodinsky, the first of four National hurlers, took the loss.

Haverhill, which lost to Swampscott in the Bi-Districts last summer, has four players back from the title team (Olenio, Scamperino, Boucher and Sughrue).

shoestring catch in center. First baseman Toby Guzowski blocked several bad throws, and infielders Gus Quattlebaum (third), Todd Harris (shortstop) and Brian Flanagan (second) combined for eight assists.

The game also marked the annual on-the-field meeting between Jarrobino and his former Legion coach, Dick Chiampa.

"I played for Lynn Post 6 as a kid and Dick was an assistant there at the time," said Jarrobino. "He took over as head coach my last year and has been there ever since."

"This is the first time I've lost to him, and he stayed around about a half-hour after the game just enjoying the victory. He's a great guy and a tremendous coach."

"He knew he didn't see Justin at his best."

Andover 10
Beverly 4

Matt Marvin yielded just three hits and two earned runs, striking out four while walking six and hitting three batters.

Post 8 pounced on the visitors for six runs in the bottom of the first.

Leadoff batter Mike Sullivan reached on an error, took second on a passed ball and scored on Matt Wolcott's single. Gus Quattlebaum singled, Justin Hesenius ripped a two-run single, Toby Guzowski lashed a double down the left field line, Brian Flanagan walked, Todd Harris plated Hesenius on a fielder's choice, and Paul Allard sent a two-run triple into the left field corner.

Beverly chipped away for one run in the second and two in the third, making it 6-3, but Andover put the game away with four runs in the fourth.

Matt Marvin tripped to left, Sullivan spanked an RBI single, Quattlebaum was hit by a pitch, Hesenius laced an RBI single, and Flanagan lashed a two-run double up the left center field alley.

Post 8's final threat came in the fifth, but it was killed by a double play after Andover loaded the bases on an error and singles by Sullivan and Wolcott.

Sullivan, Hesenius and Wolcott had two hits apiece, while Jeff Lembo and Todd Harris contributed one single each.

Haverhill 9
Andover 8

Post 8 squandered leads of 5-3 and 8-6, dropping the seesaw struggle when Haverhill registered six runs in the final three innings including three in the bottom of the seventh at Haverhill Stadium.

It was not a pitcher's day.

Todd Murray started and worked five innings for Andover, permitting six hits and four runs (two earned) while striking out six and walking three.

Justin Hesenius

relieved in the sixth but was quickly lifted after the first three batters reached on two hits and one walk.

Gus Quattlebaum (1-1) pitched the last two innings and took the loss, yielding four hits and three runs while walking two.

Haverhill's John Guilmet went the route and survived despite giving up 12 hits and eight runs (seven earned).

Andover took a 1-0 lead in the first when Mike Sullivan, 4-for-4 on the night, singled and rode home on Quattlebaum's triple to center field.

Haverhill tied it in the second, but Post 8 scored four in the third as Sullivan singled, Quattlebaum lashed a one-out RBI single, Hesenius singled, Toby Guzowski stroked a two-run single and Todd Harris delivered a two-out RBI single.

Haverhill clawed back with two runs in the third, one in the fifth and two in the sixth to take a 6-5 lead.

In the Andover seventh Sullivan tripled to left-center, Matt Wolcott ripped an RBI double to tie it, Quattlebaum and Guzowski walked to load the bases, Flanagan dropped a bunt to put the locals ahead, and Paul Allard's grounder was booted for a run.

Haverhill rebounded with three of its own in the bottom half as Jesse Peterson and Rob Vetere singled, John Finn tied it with a two-run double, Devin Cronin bunted him to third, and Steve Vetere laced a game-winning one-out single to left field.

Bob Daley made the defensive play of the game in the bottom of the sixth, with the bases loaded and two out, as he saved three runs with a spectacular over-the-head catch of a long blast.

Quattlebaum and Harris added two hits apiece for Post 8.

Young brother and sister compete in triathlon

By Lisa Boudreau

For their first time competing in a triathlon, Rachel, 10, and David Hartman, 11, both did very well. Rachel finished first in her age group and David finished sixth in his age group at the New England Youth Triathlon held in Worcester on Saturday, July 19, which was sponsored by YMCAs in the state.

Rachel and David, who are the children of Richard and Anne Hartman of Andover, heard about the event at the North Andover/Andover YMCA, where they are members.

David swam 100 yards, biked 3.2 miles and ran 1.2 miles. He finished sixth out of all the boys in his age group.

Rachel swam 50 yards, biked 1.2 miles and ran a half mile. She finished faster than any other girl in her age group and received a trophy for her first-place finish.

August tennis tourney benefits Samaritans

The 12th annual Samaritan tennis tournament will start Friday, Aug. 20, and wind up Sunday, Aug. 22, at the Willows Racquet & Fitness Center, 815 Turnpike St., North Andover.

The tournament, which is open to the public, will benefit the Samaritans of Merrimack Valley, a 24-hour suicide prevention and befriending service for the Merrimack Valley and Southern New Hampshire.

Two divisions for men and women singles, arranged by playing level, will be advanced (A) and intermediate (B) and there will be men's, women's and mixed doubles categories with a limit of one singles and one doubles event only.

The tax deductible entry is $25 for singles and $40 for a doubles team.

Entry forms are available at most local sporting goods stores and tennis clubs or from the Samaritans, 169 East St., Methuen.

For more information, call the Samaritans at 688-6612 or tournament director Joe Ruggieri at 686-5013.

Junior All-Stars enter week in good position

The Andover Junior 13-year-olds, whose predecessors won District and State titles last summer, rode the strong relief pitching of Brendan Long and a timely two-run double by Adam Espinola to a first round victory over Lowell Highland at the West Junior High freshman field.

Long relieved starter Jim Tammara, who was experiencing control problems, in the second inning and proceeded to shackle Highland on three singles the rest of the way. He walked only two, struck out five and yielded one run.

Andover jumped ahead 2-0 in the first when Jeff Cutler reached on an error. Dan Lombard was safe on another miscue to score Cutler, and Tammara lashed an RBI single.

Lowell bounced back with four runs in the second stanza, but Andover tied it with two more in the third as Matt Mahoney singled, Aaron Bellorodo singled, Long's infield out plated Mahoney, and Josh Prudden spanked an RBI single.

The winners inched ahead 5-4 in the fourth, Bellorodo singling home Lombard after he singled, stole second and stole third. Brendan Long followed with a double, sending Bellorodo to third, but the two runners were left in scoring position.

Andover made it 7-4 in the sixth on Espinola's clutch two-run double, rescuing Bellorodo and Prudden who both had singled. Espinola was cut down at third trying to stretch the hit to a triple.

Lowell Highland, the designated home team by a coin flip, notched its final run in the bottom of the sixth.

Lowell put one runner aboard in the seventh, on a walk, but Long closed out the victory with a grounder to shortstop. Matt Mahoney, a strikeout and a foul pop to catcher Bellorodo.

Jeff Danis and Aaron Bellorodo finished the game with three singles each, Adam Espinola belted a triple and double, and Josh Prudden added two singles to the 15-hit assault.

Defensive standouts were third baseman Prudden, shortstop Mahoney, second baseman Dan Lombard who also stole three bases, and Bellorodo behind the plate.

Andover 9
Lowell Gallery 4

Andover and Lowell Gallery started their game twice at Hadley Field in Lowell, with the first attempt washed out in the bottom of the first inning by lightning and heavy rains from a violent thunderstorm.

Twenty-four hours later righthander Marty Lastrina and lefty Jeff Danis combined for a six-hitter and 10 strikeouts as Andover chalked up the victory.

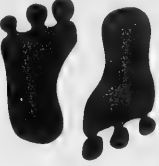

Lowell Gallery held a brief 2-0 lead in the first inning, and it wasn't until a three-run fifth stanza that the winners broke it open.

Lastrina hurled the first three innings, yielding three hits and three runs while walking five and fanning four.

Danis, whose pitching appearances this season were limited because of shoulder problems and subsequent therapy, earned the victory in relief. Danis worked the final four innings, permitting three hits and one run while striking out six and walking one.

Andover scored three runs in the bottom of the first to bounce back from its 2-0 deficit.

Jeff Cutler, Josh Prudden and Matt Mahoney all reached on Lowell error to load the bases. Aaron Belloradio lofted a sacrifice fly and Adam Espinola laced a two-run single to make it 3-2.

Andover added two runs in the second when Dave Chapin singled, Cutler again reached on an error, Prudden singled to load the bases, and Brandon Long spanked a two-run single.

The rivals traded runs in the third, Andover taking a 6-3 lead when Jeff Danis doubled and Marty Lastriana ripped an RBI single.

Callery notched its final run in the fourth, and then Andover retaliated with three in the fifth.

Danis singled, Tyler Volpe beat out a bunt single and Jeff Sandison walked to load the bases. A passed ball rescued Danis, Jeff Cutler plated Volpe with a suicide squeeze bunt, and Josh Prudden capped the offense with an RBI single.

Jeff Danis and Josh

Prudden paced the nine-hit attack with two safeties apiece.

Defensive standouts for the Andover 13's were catcher Jeff Sandison, and first baseman Aaron Belloradio who made an unassisted double play in the seventh to end the game.

SENIOR 14-15 DIVISION

Chelmsford Lupien 3 Andover National 2

The Andover National Seniors lost a first round heartbreaker to host Lupien at Volunteer Field in Chelmsford, as righthander Andy McDonald pitched well enough to win the game.

"Andy's not real big but he throws hard, has a good curve and a change," noted Nationals Manager Dan Moynihan. "After the first inning he threw a three-hit shutout, but we just couldn't get him enough runs."

Chelmsford Lupien scored all three of its runs, two of which were unearned, in the bottom of the first and then held Andover at bay.

McDonald finished with a complete-game six-hitter, walking three and striking out two.

Lupien lefthander George Mihailidis was tough, yielding just two singles while fanning four and walking five.

The Nationals scored two runs in the fifth to cut the deficit to 3-2, but squandered a golden opportunity in the sixth when they left the bases loaded.

In the Andover fifth Greg LaFlamme walked, Jeremy Schofield drew a two-out walk, LaFlamme scored on a stolen base and throwing error, and Joe Jelson then broke up Mihailidis's no-hitter with an RBI single.

With one out in the National sixth Will Cohen was hit by a pitch, Jason Nicholson drilled a pinch-hit single, both advanced on a wild pitch, and Greg LaFlamme drew another walk to load the bases.

Mihailidis bore down at this point, however, escaping the jam and preserving the victory by retiring the next two batters on a popout and groundout.

Andover had baserunners in every inning except the seventh, when they went down 1-2-3. They left a man at third in both the first and sixth stanzas.

Jeremy Schofield was a defensive standout in right field for Andover National.

Andover National 19 Andover American 1

This game was decided in the bottom of the second inning, when the Nationals sent 19 batters to the plate and scored 15 runs at the Andover High field.

The explosion came in near 100-degree heat over the weekend, after the teams had started the game two nights earlier and had it suspended when lightning and heavy rain called a halt to play with one out in the bottom of the second.

The game was halted by the 10-run mercy rule after five innings.

Lefthander Jason Caverly was the route-going winning pitcher, yielding just one hit in five innings while walking two and whiffing six.

The Nationals jumped ahead 3-0 in the first on a pair of errors and walks to Jason Nicholson, Joe Jelson, Caverly and Jeremy Schofield.

In the 15-run second Caverly belted a two-run homer, Robert Busby hammered a double and triple (one RBI),

Local golf team wins state title

Andover Country Club Women's State golf team of Marie Gosselin, Linda Donovan, Ginnie Conlin, Kikuko Yamasaki and Carol Zolo (substitute, Susan Donahue) won the state title for their Spring Cup. They played against teams from the country club, Nashawtuc, Bass Rocks, Holden Hills and Bellevue.

Main Street Mobil

Sam Ameen Jr. and his staff at Main Street Mobil wish to thank all of their customers for their support and for the tremendous success of their grand opening. A special thanks goes to the residents and businesses of Andover for their encouragement and their recognition of the quality of service offered at Main Street Mobil. Honesty, service and customer satisfaction are the basis of the business at Main Street Mobil and the staff will bend over backwards to ensure that each customer receives quality service. From the friendliness of the staff to the cleanliness of the facility, Main Street Mobil is a reflection of Sam Ameen's desire to offer the best service in Andover.

Main Street Mobil is a full service station offering 24-hour pump service, both gas and diesel, at very competitive prices. Day Manager Mike Myers and Night Manager Bill Demelis and their staffs are available to help in any way that you need them. Handicapped customers can get gas pumped by a Main Street Mobil employee at self-service prices.

The service bays at Main Street Mobil sparkle in their cleanliness and special efforts are made to ensure that the interior of your car stays clean through the repair process. Under the management of Daniel "Doc" O'Carroll and with all state-of-the-art equipment, the garage can handle general auto repairs with brakes, suspension and alignments a specialty. Main Street Mobil is a member of the Car Care Network which offers a warranty on repair work with over 5,000 member service stations located nationwide. The Car Care Network warranty supplies an 800 number to use in case of a recurring problem with a warranted repair. The operators at this number can direct you to an authorized service station where repairs will be performed free of charge.

Watch your mail for the coupons that announce the monthly service specials available at Main Street Mobil. A Senior Citizen discount is available on car repairs. All major credit cards are accepted for both gas purchases and auto repairs.

Main Street Mobil is located at 14 N. Main St., Andover, next to Memorial Hall Library. Service hours are Monday-Friday, 8-5; Saturday, 8-12, and pumps are available 24 hours a day. Telephone: (508) 475-2566.

The final National run came in the third as Jelson slapped a two-out single and later crossed on McDonald's base hit.

Andover American broke Caverly's no-hit and shutout bids in the fourth when Brian Flanagan walked and Alex Dalis clubbed an RBI double.

Jelson finished with three singles, Caverly added a single to his home run, and Bill Cohen also singled for the Nationals.

Bill Kearns pitched two strong innings of relief for the Americans.

Billerica National 14 Andover National 3

The Nationals were victimized by two bad innings, as Billerica National scored seven runs in the top of the second and added six more in the fourth at Andover High.

Billerica lefthander Jason Draper fired a complete-game four-hitter, striking out eight and walking two.

Andover National scored two runs in the bottom of the second when Jason Caverly tripled, Mark Langone walked and Jeremy Schofield ripped a two-run single.

The only other A-N run came in the sixth as Caverly belted a solo homer, and the other hit was a single by Jason Nicholson.

Key strokes in the Billerica second were two-run singles by Draper and Glen Benoit, while the victors fourth stanza featured a two-run triple by Draper, two-run single by Christian Auger and RBI singles from Garrett McKinnon and Benoit.

Bob MacCormack had three hits for Billerica National and Danny Summerlin hammered a triple.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS THE TRIAL COURT THE PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT Essex Division

Docket No. 93P 1473-EI
Estate of JAMES W. DALRYMPLE, otherwise known as JAMES WILLIAM DALRYMPLE late of Andover in the County of Essex.

NOTICE

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that a certain instrument be probated purporting to be the last will of said deceased by GEORGE DALRYMPLE of Andover in the County of Essex, praying that he be appointed executor thereof, without giving a surety on his bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Salem on or before 10:00 in the forenoon on August 16, 1993.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving specific grounds therefor, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

Witness, Thaddeus Buczko, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Salem, the thirteenth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ninety-three.

Recycle

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance: boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes. You can list your recyclable items in the Townsman's newest classified section: "RECYCLE". (FREE of charge!) It's a way to clean up your place while acknowledging the world is running out of landfill space. Simply write us listing your recyclables and we'll print them in the paper. No phone calls please.

RICHARD'S FURNITURE

Richard's Furniture announces the reopening of their newly remodeled dinette department. With more display space and a new bright fresh look, Richard's dinette department offers a wonderful selection of kitchen and dining area table and chair groupings. Many of these sets also include hutches. Richard's will also have a major clearance sale beginning at the end of July and running through the month of August. Items throughout the store will be reduced, some by as much as 50% (some items will have cash-and-carry prices). All sectional sofas will be on sale at 25% off their regular prices. Now is a great time to come into Richard's to update your rooms with new furniture.

Richard's Furniture, on Water Street

in Lawrence, has five floors of furniture and features the largest selection of household goods in the Merrimack Valley. They carry an extensive assortment of accessories including lamps, curios and custom glass as well. Richard's has been serving the Greater Lawrence community since 1949 and can furnish your home from attic to basement. Their commitment to service and selection has kept their customers coming back again and again.

Richard's Furniture offers a generous trade-in allowance, based on appraisal, on your used furniture. All furniture in saleable condition will be considered for trade-in, except mattresses. These pieces make up the inventory of the second-hand store, Richard's Used Furniture, across the street at 30 Water St. This store is popular with college and prep school students, as well as people just starting out on their own.

Richard's Furniture offers 0% financing for 90 days on any purchase and lay-away plans are also available. Credit cards are accepted. Free delivery and set up is available within a 20-mile radius with purchases of $250 or more.

Richard's Furniture is located at 25 Water St., Lawrence. Hours are: Monday, Thursday and Saturday 9-5, and Tuesday and Friday 9-7. They are closed on Wednesday and Sunday. Telephone: (508) 686-3903.

played.

The final National run came in the third as Jelson slapped a two-out single and later crossed on McDonald's base hit.

Andover American broke Caverly's no-hit and shutout bids in the fourth when Brian Flanagan walked and Alex Dalis clubbed an RBI double.

Jelson finished with three singles, Caverly added a single to his home run, and Bill Cohen also singled for the Nationals.

Bill Kearins pitched two strong innings of relief for the Americans.

BillERICA National 14 Andover National 3

The Nationals were victimized by two bad innings, as BillERICA National scored seven runs in the top of the second and added six more in the fourth at Andover High.

BillERICA lefthander Jason Draper fired a complete-game four-hitter, striking out eight and walking two.

Andover National scored two runs in the bottom of the second when Jason Caverly tripped, Mark Langone walked and Jeremy Schofield ripped a two-run single.

The only other A-N run came in the sixth as Caverly belted a solo homer, and the other hit was a single by Jason Nicholson.

Key strokes in the BillERICA second were two-run singles by Draper, two-run single by Christian Auger and RBI singles from Garrett McKinnon and Benoit.

Bob MacCormack had three hits for BillERICA National and Danny Summerlin hammered a triple.

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS THE TRIAL COURT THE PROBATE AND FAMILY COURT Essex Division

Docket No. 93P 1473-EI
Estate of JAMES W. DALRYMPLE, otherwise known as JAMES WILLIAM DALRYMPLE late of Andover in the County of Essex.

NOTICE

A petition has been presented in the above-captioned matter praying that a certain instrument be probated purporting to be the last will and testament of GEORGE DALRYMPLE of Andover in the County of Essex, praying that he be appointed executor thereof, without giving a surety on his bond.

If you desire to object to the allowance of said petition, you or your attorney should file a written appearance in said Court at Salem on or before 10:00 in the forenoon on August 16, 1993.

In addition you should file a written statement of objections to the petition, giving specific grounds therefore, within thirty (30) days after the return day (or such other time as the Court, on motion with notice to the petitioner, may allow) in accordance with Probate Rule 16.

Witness, Thaddeus Buczek, Esquire, First Justice of said Court at Salem, the thirteenth day of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and ninety-three.

Recycle

DO YOU HAVE an item or items that you no longer need, but that would be useful to someone else, something you'd be willing to give away if someone would come get it? For instance: boxes, storm windows, a child's bicycle, cardboard boxes, an old set of dishes. You can list your recyclable items in the Townsman's newest classified section: "RECYCLE" (FREE of charge). It's a way to clean up your place while acknowledging the world is running out of landfill space. Simply write us listing your recyclables and we'll print them in the paper. No phone calls please.

ANDOVER: Enjoy peace, serenity and spaciousness in this spectacular 9 room Colonial with sprawling landscaped grounds. Stone fireplaced family room, 3.5 baths and huge exercise room with 5-person hottub. The pride of ownership in this home must be seen to be appreciated.

OFFERED AT $325,000

Directions: Rt 133 to Haggetts Pond Road to 1 Woodhill Rd.

Andover, Mass.

This custom contemporary home is looking for a family who will relish its unique comfort, beauty and practicality, as did its first family. Located on a quiet cul-de-sac near Phillips Andover Academy. Four bedrooms are on the main level, while a separate upstairs bedroom offers privacy. Cathedral ceilings give a wonderful open feeling, and skylights brighten the interior. The finished basement has a room which could be an office or another bedroom, and also has a large area ideal for children's play or entertaining.

If you love natural wood, and hate painting and wall-papering, this home is for you! All the walls and ceilings are rough-sawn knotty pine requiring little maintenance, you could live here a lifetime and not have to re-do the walls or ceilings.

Many quality details, including 31,265 sq. ft. wooded lot, circular drive with granite curb, central air, security system, 20KW emergency genset, double-glazed windows and doors, and a separate storage shed. Offered by owner at $399,000. Principals only, call 508/475-8060.

PROFIT FROM OUR EXPERIENCE!

Downtown traffic . . .

ferences: "There are enough parking spaces to accommodate, but Andover is not like LA, which was developed," Mr. Cantone said. [In Andover] "there are buildings where parking should be. Andover was not a blank slate.

"We could afford to have more main streets," Mr. Cantone said. "People also have to understand that Main Street is a major artery; it wasn't always the major hubbub that it is now."

The Planning Board currently is addressing the idea of constructing more main streets.

The widespread use of Route 28 contributes to traffic congestion. Until the construction of I-93 and Route 495, Route 28 was the only road that led directly to Boston. The popularity of the road still exists today.

"[It [Route 28] is not just Andover's Main Street," Mr. Cantone said. "It goes from Andover to Lawrence to Methuen to Salem to Derry, et cetera - this baby just keeps on going!"

Downtown Andover's popularity is a positive factor for business, but it contributes to the traffic crowding on Main Street. "Downtown is a very popular place to be," Mr. Cantone said. "This means only good things, not bad; you have to expect congestion at a popular place."

"Anyone who opens a store in Andover is lucky to be in such a popular place," Mr. Cantone added. "Inability to park in front of your store is a good sign."

Mr. Cantone noted that parking violations can reflect the economic conditions of a community. "In economically decreasing years (1990-1992), accidents, citations, and parking tickets decreased," he said. "There were less people around and less business transactions; as the economy improved, traffic violations increased."

In Andover a meter violation is $8 and a safety violation is $15. Mr. Cantone said that the most meter violations occur in the metered lots behind Old Town Hall and at Park Street Village. Last year, the town received $89,000 from parking violations and $101,000 from moving violations, according to Tony Torrisi, budget and finance director. By selling special parking permits to employees of Andover businesses, the town has raised $2,475, Mr. Torrisi said.

Mr. Cantone's job helps alleviate some of the congestion problems. "I write tickets so people won't park there all day," he said. "There's more flow."

Mr. Cantone said that there is sufficient parking in Andover but drivers have to be prepared to walk a reasonable distance. "There are many places to park which are only 50 to 100 feet away from everything," he said. "Sometimes [drivers] get lucky and find a place in front of their favorite store and then they are spoiled."

Mr. Cantone said that the inefficiency of stoplights also leads to frustrating traffic congestion problems. "The state controls the stoplights," he said. "On Main Street the flow and sync of them is all wrong." He said the state has been working on the stoplights.

Mr. Cantone has some solutions. Drivers have to become knowledgeable about where to park and be willing to walk short distances. He believes the best place to park is in Park Street Village. "There are 151 parking spaces there," Mr. Cantone said. "At peak times it is always 20 percent empty; at an off-peak time it is 60 percent empty."

The general estimate of total metered parking in Andover is around 400 spaces, he said.

Last spring's Clown Town generated scores of parking citations and upset residents. "People have to understand that there were safety violations - fire, public safety, et cetera."

Despite parking problems, Mr. Cantone believes that events such as Clown Town are important. "No events are nuisances," he said. "They are popular and bring a lot of good things to the town. The town is always working to make Andover a more popular place."

Mr. Cantone encourages residents to work with the Planning Board to formulate solutions to parking and congestion problems. "Everyone has to get involved and present ideas - businessmen and citizens," he said. "No one entity can solve the challenge. It's not a problem. A lot of challenges face the community and parking is one of them."

There is a certain amount of danger in Mr. Cantone's job. "I try to keep the grace of God in my heart throughout the day because sometimes there's a sense of animosity," he said. "There's an element of people flying off the handle." Although he calls for assistance in some cases, Mr. Cantone obviously tries to avoid violence. "I don't carry weapons of any type," he said.

"Sometimes I'll be writing a ticket and the person will come out and say, 'I was right here,' but there's nothing I can do; I already wrote the ticket," he said. "That's hard - when I have to hand the person the ticket."

Although people who receive parking tickets may disagree, Mr. Cantone believes he is providing a valuable service. "I work for the town and the town pays me, but I often feel like I work for the businesses and people who want to park," he said.

Although Mr. Cantone's principle job is traffic supervisor, for which he is paid $25,500 a year, he can also help direct traffic and assist in accidents. He knows CPR and has some emergency medical training. "I don't just write parking tickets all day," he said.

Mr. Cantone's job can follow him during his off hours. "Sometimes I'll be going into a restaurant and, in the parking lot, I recognize cars that I've ticketed," he said.

"My social calendar hasn't been the same since I took this job," Mr. Cantone said. "Once I had surgery by a doctor who I ticketed. It was a local anesthetic and the whole time we talked about parking tickets."

A practical choice that works with your lifestyle

Sheet vinyl flooring for the home

If you're like many other homeowners today, you demand more value out of what you put into your home remodeling project. You want quality products that will last, look good and not cost a fortune in materials and installation. So, whether you're updating your kitchen, bath, foyer, family room or children's playroom, you'll find sheet vinyl flooring a practical option for your home.

Sheet vinyl, or resilient, flooring has become a popular choice for many homeowners due to the value-oriented benefits it offers. In fact, the Resilient Floor Covering Institute's (RFCI) 1992 consumer survey revealed the top reasons consumers select vinyl flooring are easy maintenance, easy installation, durability and price.

Take into account some of the following areas if you're thinking about installing new flooring and you'll see why sheet vinyl may be the perfect choice for you.

◀ Today's homeowners, with an active lifestyle and little time for house-keeping, want flooring that's easy to care for. A good-looking, durable and easy-to-maintain choice is resilient flooring. Pictured here is Sensation sheet vinyl flooring from Congoleum.

People spending more time in their homes

Families are spending more time together at home. And it's likely that a large amount of that time is being spent in the kitchen. The kitchen is returning as the hearth and hub of the home, where family and friends meet, not just to cook or to pass through, but to socialize and catch up on the day's events. More people are also eating meals at home in the kitchen, too, in keeping with the trend toward increased informality and dining at home to save money.

When your kitchen serves as a multi-use living area, you'll want flooring that stands up to a lot of wear and tear and stays looking good. Congoleum, a leading manufacturer of sheet vinyl flooring, is responsive to the changing profile and needs of the "typical" homeowner and has developed products with the increased durability that people want. At the same time, resilient sheet flooring also offers a degree of cushioning that's easy on your feet and can go a long way toward preventing breakage and bruised knees, if you have young children.

Just because you're spending more time at home doesn't mean that you want to spend more time maintaining it. Sheet vinyl flooring offers easy maintenance and cleanup, which is particularly important with kids around. Another plus is that sheet vinyl can be installed virtually seamlessly in any area of your home. This can help prevent dirt build-up and is more sanitary in areas where water may be present, such as in the kitchen, bath or in an entryway.

Practicality with a plus

With all the practical advantages that resilient sheet flooring offers, you may be surprised to know that it also gives you a wide range of colors and designs to choose from. Whether your home's decor is traditional, country or contemporary, you'll be certain to find a style that suits your taste. Congoleum researches the color and design preferences of con-

Borders: secret to a special room

Wallpaper borders are a decorator's secret - making ordinary rooms look extraordinary.

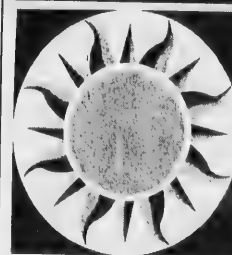

Borders can edge floors, chair rails, stairwells, kitchen counters, windows, decorative moldings, picture groupings, fireplaces, even entire rooms. Just apply your favorite border around the ceiling and repeat the treatment vertically in each corner. It's an easy way to give a boxy room architectural detail.

Borders, properly placed, can also correct a room's proportion problems. Give a low ceiling the illusion of height by placing the border directly on the ceiling, drawing the eye upward. With a high ceiling, run the border along the top of the door frame for a warm, dramatic effect.

For a custom look, cover the walls with a crisp stripe, and use a coordinating border for edging.

Borders can also be used to mat a picture frame, dress up a plain folding screen, decoupage a toy box, nightstand or wastebasket. For a neat trick in the kitchen, wrap wooden or ceramic canisters with the same border you've used on the walls.

Borders are an easy, inexpensive way to give the decorator touch to every room in your house. Waverly offers a complete collection of border styles and sidewall selections in the Waverly Borders collection. Patterns include classic fruit and floral motifs, bold paisley prints, elegant swags and contemporary, impressionist designs. For easy installation and maintenance, all patterns are pretrimmed, prepasted, strippable and washable. For Waverly's "Decorate With Borders" idea book, send a $2 check to: Decorate With Borders, P.O. Box 5110, Farmingdale, N.Y. 11736-5110.

Decorate with carpet, a foundation for any design scheme

Colors: Choosing the right ones

Decorating a home means creating an environment that makes you happy, one that's flexible, functional and fashionable enough to fit your family's tastes, interests and lifestyles.

When it comes to decorating, carpet serves as the foundation for any design scheme. As the "fifth wall" of a room, your floor is the common denominator that unifies all other design elements. Carpet is an investment you will live with for many years to come.

When selecting carpet, nothing is as important as the correct color choice. Despite the fact that some would-be carpet buyers have a color in mind before they walk into a store, selecting the right carpet color can be overwhelming.

Ultimately, the choice of color is a subjective and personal decision and there is no single decision that will have a greater bearing on customer satisfaction. However, color selection also creates the greatest potential for error because there are so many factors involved in choosing the correct color.

To simplify the color selection process, Vicki Jones, a colorist for Peerless Carpet, one of the world's largest carpet manufacturers, offers some suggestions. Like the conductor is to an orchestra or the head chef is to a fine restaurant, the eye of the colorist is a critical asset in determining the success of any carpet manufacturer.

Ms. Jones explains that color availability has undergone dramatic changes in the past 30 years.

"Carpet color selection used to be rather limited. Manufacturers, in an attempt to ensure extended carpet life, frequently used medium and darker shades and patterns to help hide dirt. With advanced technology, better soil resistance and stain protection, carpet color choices today are virtually unlimited. In response to the demands of the fashion-conscious consumer, manufacturers now introduce new color trends every six months," Ms. Jones says.

Color basics

There are six basic primary and secondary colors in the spectrum and another six tertiary colors. In the color wheel shown here, the primary colors are red, yellow and blue. Secondary colors — orange, purple and green — are made from the combination of two primary colors. Tertiary colors are derived from the combination of a primary color with its neighboring secondary hue. Colors on the left of the wheel are warm while those on the right are cool.

Ms. Jones says, "These colors can be effectively combined in any one of three creative color schemes. A complementary scheme, for example beige and purple, yellow and mauve or peach and blue, results from using colors opposite each other on the color wheel. An analogous scheme employs colors that are next to each other on the color wheel, such as blue with purple and blue-green. A monochromatic color scheme is achieved by using different shades of the same color."

You can also create color schemes by borrowing from a painting, window treatment, piece of pottery or fabric in a room.

Color is a great space saver or space maker

Color affects the way we perceive space. It can create a mood or visually alter the dimensions of a room by creating a feeling of expanding or shrinking space.

In carpet, color is the key to transforming space. To cozy up a large room with a northern or eastern exposure, choose a dark color carpet from the warm side of the spectrum. Because deep rich hues absorb light, they give the illusion of smaller, more intimate space.

Complementary color schemes use colors opposite each other on the color wheel; analogous schemes employ neighboring colors on the wheel and monochromatic color schemes use different shades of the same color.

Lighter colors help to visually expand space, particularly pale pastels and neutral hues. For sunny southern and western exposures, greens and blues will help to cool the atmosphere.

Color reflects style

The choice of color can enhance and complement furniture styles. Traditional rooms are best suited to high

An enormous selection of carpets, ceramic tiles, vinyl floors, Oriental and design rugs are available at Messina's

The Messina family has been in the floor-covering business for more than 40 years. Formerly located in Lawrence, their new store is located on Route 28 in Salem, N.H., adjacent to Furniture World, directly across from the new Circuit City store. They are very proud of their showroom, which they refer to as "the most beautiful in the area," with 5,000-square-feet of display area. The customer will be treated to an enormous selection of carpets, ceramic tiles, vinyl floors, Oriental and design rugs.

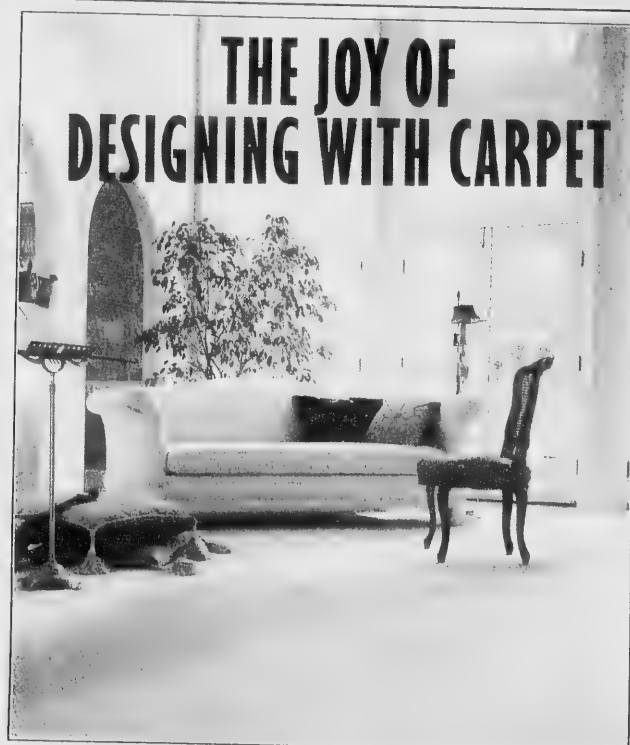

At Messina's, the customer receives the best possible service beginning with the selection process all the way through installation. In fact, all carpet installations come with their exclusive lifetime installation warranty. They understand the customer's need for service today, as well as the importance of protecting that investment into the future.

The Messinas don't believe that they are just selling something to cover your floor. They sell fashion. Their objective is to beautify your home with long-lasting quality at the best price, value, fashion, quality and service. This is the key to Messina's success. They would like to thank the thousands of customers who have given them the opportunity to be of service to them and the countless referrals those customers have made.

Let in light - and air - with the new Triple Hung window

Is your dark, stuffy house getting you down? Do you want to build a new home or room addition that emphasizes natural light and fresh air? If you answered yes to either of these questions, it's time to take a look at the new triple-hung window designed and made by Marvin Windows & Doors of Warroad, Minn.

The idea of a Triple Hung window is not new. One of the earliest homeowners to recognize its benefits was Thomas Jefferson, U.S. president, diplomat, author and architect. Jefferson incorporated the triple-hung window design into his own home. Monticello, now an historic landmark building near Charlottesville, Va. The placement of the windows allowed Jefferson to use natural mountain breezes for ventilation and cooling during the summer months and, equally important, to capture natural light for his favorite pastimes, reading and writing.

Artificial light in the 18th century was limited to candles and oil lamps. If time travel were possible, 20th-century visitors would find buildings of that age, humble or palatial, surprisingly murky.

Because Jefferson pursued his work during the daytime hours, he used every architectural trick, within the limits of Monticello's Palladian style, to brighten his home with natural light. However, by admitting light, he also admitted cold and portions of Monticello had to be closed off during the winter months. But then Jefferson was willing to put up with occasional discomfort in exchange for beautiful, sun-filled rooms.

Today's homeowners are a bit more practical. They are no longer content with form; they want function too. According to Marvin Windows & Doors, their Triple Hung window manages to achieve both.

The company says the Triple Hung is unique to the market because its design offers better floor to ceiling ventilation. As the bottom sash is raised, the top sash automatically lowers, allowing air to pass through both the top and bottom of the window. Other triple-hung windows, including Jefferson's, raise from the floor to cover the top sash, which is typically fixed.

"Our counterbalance system lets warm, stale air go out at the top and fresh air come in below - much like the traditional, time-honored double-hung window. But when the Triple Hung is fully open, the top and bottom sash align over the middle sash for a dramatically clean, uniform appearance that brings outdoors right into the room," says Frank Marvin, president of Marvin Windows & Doors.

Marvin's research and development department designed and engineered the Triple Hung in 1991 at the request of a well-known singer and musician who wanted a large window with at least two working sashes for his home.

"The client wanted to frame enormous, breathtaking views with windows that actually opened," says Jerry Dalen, a research and development technician with Marvin Windows & Doors. "We designed the Triple Hung to operate very smoothly, eliminating springs and balances, and added characteristics we felt would appeal to more typical homeowners: the window hardware is concealed in vinyl tracks along the edges of the jambs, the two operating sashes tilt into the room for cleaning and the three sashes can be removed from their tracks altogether."

The result, says Mr. Dalen, is an elegant multi-purpose window that, considering its large size, is easy to maintain and is energy efficient. "The Triple Hung fills clerestory space, admitting light to lofty areas or vaulted rooms. Joined together in floor to ceiling heights, it's a great choice for sunrooms; breezeways or windowed walls. And, flanking entry doors, it can add curb appeal to almost any home," he says.

Whether building or remodeling, the Triple Hung is a good product to consider when selecting windows that not only delight your senses, but also contribute to the lasting value and versatility of your home. For example, enclosing a porch can create additional room out of existing space. But by using windows more generously, that same room can instill a greater feeling of being outdoors with the benefit of temperate year-round conditions.

According to Jamie Parash, spokeswoman for the National Association of the Remodeling Industry, windows like the Triple Hung play a major role in satisfying the growing consumer demand for open, airy spaces.

"Homeowners are installing larger windows in virtually every room of the house. They are replacing the picture window of the 1960s with huge multiple units, many with

From 'wind hole' to window

Windows began as mere slits in ancient fortifications. Their principal functions in medieval times were to let in light and air and, in warfare, to let out spears and arrows. The word window is itself derived from "wind eye" or "wind hole."

With the hole came the inspiration for glazing, the earliest being thin sheets of mica. But tiny sections of glass cast in shallow molds soon followed and sash windows, casement and double hung were used as early as 1670. However, the poor and middle classes continued to use oiled paper or fabric to illuminate their homes for the next several generations.

"The first window glass was hand blown, then cut into lights, or panes. In the 18th century, the 12-pane window was consistently used in Europe and North America. The knob that remained where the glass blower attached his pipe - called the "bull's eye" - was sold for transoms over doorways because it was less desirable than the flat sheets but too precious to be thrown away," says Frank Marvin, president of Marvin Windows & Doors.

Early windows in the United States were carefully hand-crafted, displaying fine wood-working and a frugal use of glass. Glass, a rare commodity before the age of mass production, was still made by hand in small rectangles and was very expensive.

"Even after the manufacturing process became less complicated and cheaper, glass was still considered a luxury and was taxed per pane, per year.

Homeowners like Thomas Jefferson (author of the Declaration of Independence and third president of the United States) may have reduced their tax liabilities by installing triple-hung windows. At Monticello, Jefferson's estate in Virginia, the 18-pane windows raised from the ground level to a height of 10 feet or more. [See above story.] Because the windows could be used as doors, they may not have been too taxed," says Mr. Marvin.

The size of glass lights increased. By the mid-19th century, a two-over-two light pattern was favored; by 1900, one-over-one was popular. Curved glass developed as a result of eclectic architecture, such as the Queen Anne style which includes turrets, oriels and bay windows. By the end of the 19th century, fairly large sheets of glass were available for store fronts. Huge sheets of plate glass, curtain walls and structural glass were not available until the 20th century.

After World War II, methods to measure window performance (air and water infiltration and thermal conductivity) were finally developed.

Because of the classic simplicity of early American architecture, windows are often the single most important exterior feature of older homes and commercial buildings. Recognizing that, Marvin Windows & Doors has developed the Triple Hung window and other unique designs to replicate historic windows with the added benefit of modern efficiencies. The company builds its products to order so that it has virtually unlimited custom capabilities.

Windows have evolved with civilization.

"The correct style of window will rarely be standard. It may seem like a minor detail when making window selections, but even a slightly thicker glazing bar or six panes instead of eight could make a substantial difference when the windows are actually installed," says Mr. Marvin. "Our replacement windows combine authentic designs with all the advantages of draft-free double glass to maintain the character of older and traditional-style buildings, while conserving energy and preserving warmth."

Marvin Windows & Doors has been providing authentically designed, made-to-order windows for decades. The company builds every window and door to fill a specific order, an American tradition more commonly used by the skilled craftsmen in small, custom millwork shops.

Here are a few simple ways to get a great-looking deck

Want to protect your deck from the abuse nature deals out? Beautiful wood protection is easy if you follow some basic steps. Here's some advice from the woodcare experts at Olympic.

Clean the deck before staining or protecting with a clear finish. Use a special deck freshener product to remove dirt and mildew stains and return dark, weathered wood to its original beauty. If mildew is an ongoing problem, use a special mildew cleaner that contains a mildewicide to remove mildew and keep it from coming back. Make sure to follow all instructions on the product label.

Select the right product for the right job. Decide on the look you want and determine, with your local paint and stain dealer, what product will get you that look with maximum protection. Safeguard your investment in your home by choosing a top quality stain, clear waterproofing sealer or clear wood preservative.

Waterproofing may not be enough. Many deck protection products provide only water-repellency to protect against warping, swelling or cracking. But that alone will not keep your deck looking fresh and new. Select a product that also protects against damaging sun rays, has a mildew-resistant coating and penetrates the wood to strengthen wood fibers.

Protect your pressure-treated wood. While pressure-treated wood won't rot, it can still fall victim to moisture and sun damage, as well as mildew growth on the coating surface. Use a stain or waterproofing sealer specially made for decks.

Don't use a solid stain or a latex stain on a deck. Solid stains and latex stains leave more film on the wood surface, so they scuff easier and the stain film can rub off on skin and clothing.

Make sure the wood is dry. Moisture in the wood prevents a stain from penetrating, which shortens the life of the stain. Check the wood by sprinkling some water on the surface. If it's absorbed in a few seconds, it's ready to stain.

Don't apply too much stain or sealer. Less is better on a deck. With too much coating, the deck surface becomes less attractive and can actually peel.

A well-designed redwood deck can be many different things

If you want more living space in your house, one of the least expensive ways to add a room is building a redwood deck.

A well-designed deck can be a cozy living room, a sunny breakfast spot or a play area for the kids, suggests the California Redwood Association.

The trick is in the design.

First, decide on the basic features. If you're a sun-lover, you'll want plenty of open space, preferably exposed to the southern sky. If you want privacy, you may want to use trees and shrubs or a redwood screen.

Safety should be a top priority, especially when children will be using the deck. Rails that a child cannot slip through and gates at the top of stairways are essential.

Next, consider the best ways to make the deck blend with the architecture of your home and the surrounding landscape. A simple design may fit best with a modern building, while more ornate features may be better for an older structure.

In either case, redwood can do the job admirably. Its cinnamon-red color has a natural beauty that will enhance the atmosphere of your new outdoor room. Redwood is one of the most stable woods. It is easy to work with and highly resistant to decay and insects. Its open-cell structure holds a finish well.

Be creative

Once you've selected the basics for your deck, it's time to move on to the amenities. This is where you can put your imagination to work, says the association. Here are some ideas:

- Give a deck an exotic feeling with redwood planters, lattices and screens surrounded by greenery and flowers. Overhead trellises further add to the comfort and coziness.

- Use split levels to make the deck flow and create the sense of having several rooms. One area can be a children's playroom, one a dining area and another a family room.

- Build a table and benches right into the deck, then add a barbecue grill, cabinet and window to the kitchen.

- Install a hot tub. Add subtle lighting for night-time use and a plastic or canvas roof to provide protection from

Whether its features are simple or ornate, when building a deck, redwood can do the job admirably.

How to fix a broken window

One area around the house prone to damage is windows. Broken branches, debris, snow and ice or maybe a baseball, can crack or break a pane.

Replacing glass isn't easy, but here are the steps and tools you will need.

Purchase the needed pane at a hardware or glass store, where it can be cut to size. When measuring the dimensions of the window opening, deduct 1/16 of an inch from the length and width. The pane must be slightly smaller than the opening.

Wear gloves when removing the old glass. Take out as much as you can, but do not force any piece that resists. It will come out when the old putty is removed. The old putty usually will yield easily to scraping. Sometimes it may have to be softened with a soldering iron.

If the pane is held in place with glazier's points, remove them. Flip them out with the blade of a screwdriver or pull them out with pliers. Old points can be used again, but you may want to get new ones.

After positioning the new pane in the frame, use a new kind of window glazing that provides a weather resistant seal.

If you want to try cutting the replacement glass yourself, remember these tips: the glass cutter should be held almost vertically; apply firm, even pressure to the cutter after its wheel has been lubricated with a small amount of household oil; use one of two methods to break the glass (wear gloves) - hold the pane on either side of the cut and bend slightly or hold the length of the glass on a flat surface with the line of cut on the edge and break off the scrap.

the elements.

When you're finished creating and building your deck, you might be a candidate for the redwood deck design contest sponsored annually by the association and Home Mechanix magazine.

Winners receive cash prizes and have photos of their decks published.

Contest entry blanks are free. Write California Redwood Association, 405 Enfrente Drive Suite 200, Novato, Calif. 94949, or call (415) 382-0662.

Medicine for wood? It's not new

We all need medicine every now and then to maintain our well-being... but medicine for wood?

That's right. Wood preservatives that help maintain the strength and appearance of wood can be thought of as medicines for wood.

Treated wood is highly resistant to rot and insect infestation. Thus, the service life of treated wood in exterior applications can extend as much as seven times that of untreated wood. Wood preservation helps to conserve forest resources.

Wood preservation is not a new phenomenon. Available literature indicates that wood preservation began in the Eastern Mediterranean in approximately 2000 B.C., according to the American Wood Preservers Institute. Today, a growing population calls for an increased awareness of natural resources.

When purchasing treated wood, remember to ask for the Consumer Information Sheet outlining uses and appropriate handling procedures.

Consumer Information Sheets outlining the use of treated wood and the common sense procedures to follow when working with it are also available by writing the American Wood Preservers Institute, 1945 Old Gallows Road, Suite 550, Vienna, Va. 22182.

Find the garage door that's right for your home

A good garage door not only adds to the beauty and value of your home but also helps protect you against criminals and accidents, experts agree.

Fortunately, it can be easy to find the garage door that's right for your home if you follow these helpful hints from the experts at the Clopay garage door company:

• Your garage door is ready to be replaced if it sags when it's raised and/or "smiles" when it's down. Do the rollers catch or drag when it's being raised or lowered? Is it cracked, split, dented or rusting? If it's a wood door, are the panels loose, bulging or peeling? Such conditions can be as unsafe as they are unsightly.

• A professional installing dealer will help you select a garage door and install it for you. Many have showrooms or will bring product samples to your home. Professional installation assures you of a proper and safe installation.

• Retail home centers and building supply stores offer doors for the do-it-yourselfer and may be able to arrange for professional installation.

• Steel garage doors offer great looks, durability and the least maintenance. Steel doors are finish-painted in several colors and are available in many designs.

• A "sandwich" constructed door is the newest innovation in steel doors. This type of construction bonds insulation between two steel "skins" to provide added strength, dent resistance, increased insulation value and quiet operation. The increased insulation quality is especially important if your garage is used for a work area or is attached to another living area of your home.

• Wood garage doors offer beautiful design possibilities, from elaborate carved panels to a rough-sawn, rustic look. Wood doors must be primed and finish-painted to protect against the elements.

• Fiberglass doors are a good choice for homeowners requiring a door resistant to salt air corrosion or requiring light transmittance and minimum maintenance.

How to landscape your home to save energy

Homeowners often don't realize that landscaping and the placement of shrubs and trees not only make a house look more attractive and enhance its value, but also cut heating and cooling costs.

Landscaping in an environmentally responsible manner is the specialty of Earl Springer, owner of a commercial landscape company in Sandwich.

He offers these energy-saving planting tips:

1. Plant deciduous (leaf-shedding) trees and shrubs on the south-facing side of your home or business. "In the summer, the leaves will protect your building from the heat of the sun," says Mr. Springer. "In the winter the leaves drop, allowing the rays of the sun through to provide heat."

2. Protect buildings from the chill of winter winds by planting evergreens - firs, pines or cedars - where they will block prevailing winds.

3. Choose plants that require less water. Most major nursery retailers can provide lists of these drought-tolerant plants, according to the MasterCard Consumer News Bureau.

4. Plant only flowers, grasses, shrubs and trees that are native to your area. Non-native plants are often less disease- and insect-resistant, increasing the need for sprays and insecticides.

5. Lawns require mowing, watering and fertilizing. Consider sowing a field of wildflowers in place of grass. You'll be rewarded with a sea of color and a variety of birds, bees and butterflies.

To help restore national and public land forests which have been damaged or destroyed, Mr. Springer recommends MasterCard's "Forests for Our Future" program. "MasterCard will plant a tree for every MasterCard purchase made from a participating mail order merchant," he says. For more information, call 1-800-332-1214.

To be safe, be sure to use the right tools

For safety and economy, use the right tools.

When assembling your first tool box or buying tools for someone who is, look for tools that are likely to last and can save time and money.

Having the right tools can make it a lot easier to do many home repair jobs yourself, do them right and do them promptly. That will keep many minor problems from turning into more major and more costly repair jobs and help avert possible safety hazards around the house.

Experts say the average homeowner would do well to stock the following tools:

- Strike tools - hammers, chisels.
- Measuring tools - tape measure, levels.
- Cutting tools - hand-cutting tools, hand saws.
- Screwdrivers.
- Wrenches.
- Pliers - needle nose, etc.
- Socket sets.
- Specialty tools - compass, scribe, magnets.

When it comes to tool purchases, it really pays to buy the best, experts agree. A quality tool lasts longer and does a better, safer job.

The right tools can help make many tasks much less tough to handle.

HC Furniture Mill has a special summer sale for local residents

Andover's Howard Coombs, president of HC Furniture Mill in North Chelmsford, is kicking off his second annual summer sale by offering free home-decorating services to any Andover resident who visits his store in July.

Located at "The Mill at Chelmsford" on Princeton Street in North Chelmsford (above Bainbridge's Restaurant), HC Furniture Mill has quickly built a reputation for offering quality furniture at prices unmatched by any of their competitors, including the Gardner outlets.

HC Furniture Mill's annual summer sale, which begins today, offers customers savings of up to $250 off the store's already low mill-direct prices on upholstery, dining room sets, bedroom sets, lamps and accessories.

Mr. Coombs, who has 20 years experience in the furniture industry in both purchasing and sales, is proud of the reputation HC Furniture Mill developed in its first year. Customers have come from as far away as Springfield and Cape Cod to take advantage of great values on top quality furniture.

"Today's furniture customer is going to shop around and make an educated decision to get the best value they can for their dollar," says Mr. Coombs. "My goal is to make HC Furniture Mill their last stop."

Price, however, is not the only factor which has customers turning to HC Furniture Mill. The store has two full-time decorators who will visit any Andover resident's home this month and design a room or an entire home from floor to ceiling, at no charge. Also on staff is a full-time service manager, who provides immediate response to any questions or problems a customer may have.

"To succeed in the furniture business, you must take care of your customer," says Mr. Coombs. "At HC Furniture, we deliver what today's customer is looking for - a great selection of quality furniture at the lowest prices, backed up with great service."

arched and round tops, to bring in more light. The focus really is on the window. Curtains, draperies and blinds are being kept to a minimum, especially in rooms with vaulted and cathedral ceilings, so that the beauty of the window itself is apparent," says Ms. Parash.

Windows, more than any other design aspect, add overall character to buildings. Ms. Parash says money spent on windows is money well spent. "Windows do double duty for the consumer, affecting both the exterior and interior of a home. From the street, they can project an image that is graceful, clean and well maintained. From inside the house, they can make rooms look and feel larger. In addition to updated kitchens and baths, it is daylight and simplicity that will increase the value of homes during this decade," she says.

According to Mr. Marvin, the Triple Hung, a perfected version of a 200-year-old window style, is an ideal solution for bringing in light. And, in addition to providing a natural alternative to air-conditioning, it adds high performance to its list of efficiencies.

"We've taken a classic, understated design and made it better. Our Triple Hung window meets or exceeds our industry standards for air infiltration and wind lead. Three-quarter-inch insulating glass is standard, with a list of options that includes authentic divided panes for historic buildings and traditional home designs and energy efficient Lowe-E glass with Argon gas," says Mr. Marvin.

To reduce drafts, the company applies high-grade weatherstripping at the header, both check rails and along the bottom sash. Interior "energy panels" are also available for both top and bottom sash. Consumers will like the optional full-exterior screens for use in the more bug-infested regions of the country.

Marvin Windows & Doors builds the Triple Hung to homeowner specifications. The window can be ordered singly or positioned side by side in multiple units. Factory applied finishes are available, including the company's tough Flexacron coating in four standard and 50 optional colors. Heights range from six to 12 feet and up; widths from three feet and wider. Jamb extensions for different wall thicknesses are also available.

"Best of all, because of its unique engineering and heavy construction, the Triple Hung can be ordered in very large sizes, with many glazing options. It's suitable for both residential and commercial use. Aesthetically and economically, it can make a restoration or remodeling project, a room addition or an entirely new home a better value," says Mr. Marvin.

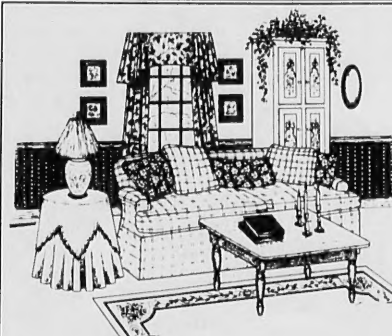

"This window is one of a kind," he emphasizes. "Not only is the Triple Hung practical, it is lovely to look at. Mr. Jefferson would have liked that."

Marvin Windows & Doors is the nation's largest manufacturer of made-to-order wood windows and doors, according to the company, which offers more than 8,000 standard sizes and a virtually unlimited number of custom sizes, shapes and options, including the Triple Hung window.

The Triple Hung window is now available through Marvin's national network of dealers and distributors. See one of them for more information.

N.E. Rug Co. handles most flooring needs

Family-owned business marks its 35th year

New England Rug Company, a family-owned and operated business since 1957, is located in the heart of Methuen's historic downtown business district.

Having grown from a small carpet and rug cleaning business to an ever-expanding full-service floor covering dealer, New England Rug owes much of its success to its quality of service and installation.

The company's growth has been strong and steady, with the majority of its business coming from repeat customers and referrals from existing customers, builders and real estate brokers.

Business ranges from rug cleaning to carpet, linoleum, VCT, ceramic tile and hardwood flooring sales, installation and repair.

sumers on an ongoing basis, in order to update its product offerings in keeping with what people want.

With all these benefits - good value, durability, easy maintenance, a wide variety of colors/designs to choose from - in addition to relatively low-cost installation and a range of products to suit every budget, sheet vinyl flooring is a sensible and stylish choice for your home.

Decorate the home with carpet quality carpet with luxurious dense pile. Styles such as saxonies, level loops or random shears in muted tones such as rose, delft blue, green-gray and subdued pastels are well suited to enhance traditional furnishings.

On the warmer side, the richer tones of garnet, sapphire, topaz and emerald are also compatible with traditional environments.

Country-style furnishings go best with modified earth tones, chestnut, sand and gray; or, alternately, the muted dusty tones of blue, rose, peach, burgundy or green.

The purity of line and practicality of design symbolic of contemporary furniture is ideally reflected in upscale colors such as warm mauve, peach, coral, blue-green and a variety of creamy whites, which can soften high-tech furnishings. Consumers may also opt for quieting earth tones such as taupe, warm gray and variations of brown.

For those leaning toward the eclectic blend of past and present, neutral colors such as taupe or gray draw attention to the mix of furnishings. Alternately, try deep, rich jewel tones to add life and energy to a mix-and-match decor.

Redecorating is a costly undertaking in terms of time, energy and money. It pays to do it right the first time.

Whatever your preferences in furniture and color, following these basic guidelines is bound to ensure greater satisfaction when the job is finished.
